

CURRENT COMMENT

By Chester H. Rowell

THE oceans are bridged! The Atlantic has been crossed times enough, and the hardest step of the Pacific has been crossed, so that there is now no longer any novelty in the mere feat. Yet even that a year ago, was among the unattainable. The Atlantic has been crossed by island leaps, but never the whole stretch of it, and the only effort to reach Hawaii had ended in partial failure. Now they have all been done, and can obviously be done again. There remain only the steps to make this common and practical. And no one now doubts that these will soon follow.

THE first results will doubtless be visible on land rather than on the sea. The whole problem of a comprehensive land air service is already solved, except that of getting the money. We have the pilots; we have adequate machines, though not enough of them; we have some model air ports and we know how to build more—we have, in short, samples of everything, and lack only the money to duplicate them. That money will be instantly available, whenever enough popular support is assured to make it a sound investment. This summer's enthusiasm now guarantees that.

PRESIDENT Coolidge is reported as considering recommending to congress the transfer of the government of our island possessions from the war, navy and interior departments to a new civilian bureau. The president will of course not dare call it a "Colonial office," but that is what it will be. The pity is that some such office was not set up immediately after the Spanish war, instead of waiting until now.

These outlying possessions are a variegated problem. Alaska, Hawaii and Porto Rico are best administered as self-governing Territories, but even they may as well report to a central bureau. The Philippines aspire to national independence, but if that is not to be given them at one, they had better be under a colonial office than under semi-military administration. Guam is mostly a cable office, but its few native inhabitants would do better under a civilian administration than under a naval officer. American Samoa, with its harbor of Pago-Pago, on the island of Tutuila, is a naval station, but a civilian administrator for its native inhabitants has been an acute need for many years. The Canal Zone is a problem by itself, which will probably be left as it is. Otherwise, all these possessions ought to be somebody's business, and a mere incident of other departments.

IF THERE is any physical thing left, produced in our time, for the archaeologist of the fifth century to study, it is likely to be Gutzon Borglum's great memorial, the carving of which has just started, on the granite face of Rushmore mountain, in South Dakota. That and the Stone Mountain Civil War memorial, also started by Borglum, but to be finished by others, are the only things of our times rivaling in permanence the great monuments of Egypt. And they are the only things of their time which have survived to ours.

WHETHER it is artistically justified to produce many of these gigantic reliefs may be debatable. This is, to be sure, an age of gigantism, but this feature of our life has not found its most characteristic expression in art. It has gone into great buildings and industrial structure, not one of which, unless it is a few stone cathedrals and other monumental buildings, built in conscious imitation of the past, will survive two hundred, much less five thousand years. But, if these are to be our visible messages to our successors on the planet, now is at least the first time they could be made without extravagance. The pyramids cost the groans of a hundred thousand serfs, through a whole long generation. The portrait statues with which Ramesses II dotted Egypt, lost his name and features be forgotten, were the products of untold labor, lasting all his reign. Now much greater works can be turned out, in a few months, with pneumatic drills. And once made, they will last as long as the mountains. That is not forever, but it is a period measured by hundreds of thousands of years. At least as long as the earth remains fit for human habitation, these images of the life and great figures of our time will last for the contemplation of the ages. Washington, Lincoln and Roosevelt will last longer than Ramesses.

FLYERS ARE SUFFERING FROM SHOCK

SANTA ANA, HUNTINGTON BEACH TO OBSERVE FOURTH OF JULY

REST GREATLY NEEDED

Thousands of Automobiles Are Massed on Street as Intrepid Aviators Pass

(By United Press) PARIS, July 2.—At the height of their triumph, with the cheers of the Paris crowds still ringing in their ears, Com. Richard E. Byrd and Bert Acosta, pilot of his monoplane America, were ordered to bed over the week-end late this afternoon.

Byrd and Acosta followed advice of their personal physician, Com. William S. Bainbridge, U. S. naval reserve, and went to the American hospital to be examined thoroughly and x-rayed for possible broken bones. Dr. Edmund Gros, who examined them, found both Byrd and Acosta suffering from severe shock and he ordered them to bed immediately, to remain over Sunday. They had just returned from their first welcoming function—a luncheon at the Inter-Allied club, where they and Lt. George Noelle and Engineer Bert Balchen were guests of honor among a distinguished gathering.

Praised by Speakers Various speakers had praised them. Outside, crowds only less small than the sudden, unexpected throngs that had stormed the Gare St. Lazaire upon their arrival, had waited to cheer them. They had been informed that Gaston Doumergue, president of the republic, would receive them at 5 o'clock. The examination disclosed that Acosta's right collarbone had been fractured as the plane hit the beach at Ver Sur Mer. "I found both Byrd and Acosta suffering from shock, bruises and great nervous exhaustion," Dr. Gros told the United Press. "Both greatly needed rest."

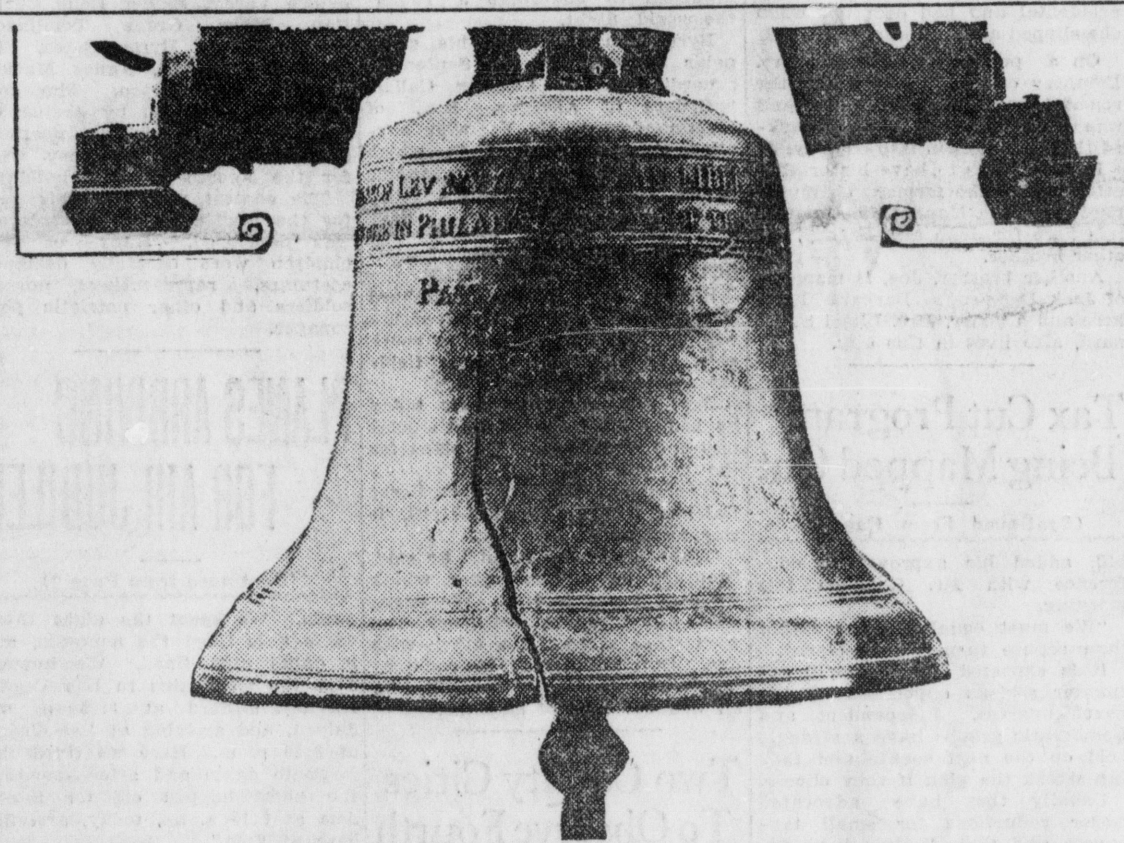

"I ordered them to bed over Sunday."

Dr. Gros permitted Byrd and Acosta to pay their visit to President Doumergue before they went to bed, but made Acosta wear a sling and insisted upon their immediate rest.

SANTA ANA CHILD IS JULY 4 VICTIM

The first casualty incident to preparations for observing the Fourth of July had occurred in Santa Ana today in the death of Stanley A. Meric, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Meric, 833 French street, at the Santa Ana Valley hospital yesterday. Death was due to phosphorus poisoning. The child was playing Wednesday with "sons-of-a-gun" and placed some of the explosive in his mouth. An autopsy late yesterday afternoon revealed phosphorus poisoning in the stomach and it is presumed the lad swallowed some of the explosive. Funeral services were held in the Winbiger Mission funeral home this afternoon and burial was in Fairhaven cemetery. It was said no inquest will be held.

G. O. P. LEADERS WORK OUT TAX CUT PROGRAM

$300,000,000 Reduction Plan to Be Introduced At Next Session

RAPID CITY, S. D., July 2.—Republican leaders who have been coming out to see President Coolidge at his summer White House on Squaw creek, today worked out an administration tax reduction program which will be introduced at the December session of congress.

This plan calls for reduction in specific taxes of $300,000,000 and retention of other taxes as they are now—rather than general reduction all along the line.

It developed today that an effort will be made to retain present rates on incomes of less than $25,000 upon the theory that the small taxpayer has reaped most benefits from recent reductions and that his rates now are at rock bottom normal level.

Changes suggested in this agreed plan include: Reduction in corporation taxes from 12 1/2 to 10 or 11 per cent. Elimination of all taxes on theater and baseball admissions and club dues.

Diminution of levies upon incomes of more than $25,000 on the ground that these incomes have received smallest reduction since high war time levies.

Slight reduction in automobile taxes.

All Republican leaders who have called here have expressed agreement with these general principles. Representative Timberlake, Republican, Colorado, a member of the house ways and means committee, which must frame the new tax

BROTHER OF JACK DEMPSEY KILLS WIFE AND THEN SELF

Schenectady Police Trying To Determine What Provoked Shooting

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., July 2.—The coroner and police today were striving to find the motive for the murder of Edna Dempsey, 28, a brother of Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, and his subsequent suicide.

An investigation by Coroner Pettors, after the shooting, developed the fact that last night young Dempsey had threatened to kill his wife, but to whom this threat was made, officials refused to say.

Jack Dempsey arrived at the office of Chief of Police Funston from the Dempsey training camp at Saratoga Springs shortly before 2:00 o'clock.

After a short conference with the chief they left for the coroner's office and later in the afternoon were to see the body of John Dempsey.

The Dempseys were married four years ago and had a 3-year-old son, Bruce.

Mrs. Dempsey, who was Edna Carto, of this city, returned here

Jewel Thieves Are Hunted By Police

LOS ANGELES, July 2.—Persons responsible for the theft of $1250 worth of jewels belonging to Mrs. Ann Hastings are being sought. The jewels, in a black purse, were placed in a showcase at the Hoffman cleaning shop, 8224 Santa Monica boulevard. When she looked for the purse two hours later, it had disappeared.

KELLY BEGINS HIS CONTRACT IN PENITENTIARY JUTE MILL

(By United Press)

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., July 2.—Paul Kelly arrived at San Quentin prison at 9:15 a. m. today, looking like almost anything else in the world than a "screen sheik."

He wore a dirty, rumpled gray suit and old gray hat and needed a shave.

"What do you think about it?" someone asked. "It doesn't do any good to think about it at all," replied Kelly. "It's going to be tough enough as it is."

Penitentiary Term Given Stage Star

(By United Press) LOS ANGELES, July 2.—Dorothy Mackaye, erstwhile stage star, must follow her sweetheart, Paul Kelly, to San Quentin.

The actress was sentenced today to serve from one to three years in prison for compounding a felony in that she sought to conceal circumstances surrounding the death of her husband, Ray Raymond.

The former footlight favorite took the sentence, pronounced by Superior Judge Charles S. Burnell, calmly. Standing beside her counsel Miss Mackaye answered in a clear voice questions asked her by the court.

Attorney Jerry Geisler immediately filed oral notice of appeal.

Sentence was passed after Judge Burnell had denied a motion for new trial. The motion was made on the grounds that the jury included members who had been questioned in the Kelly case and on the ground that the evidence was insufficient for conviction.

Before sentence was passed, Attorney Geisler made a last attempt to save Miss Mackaye from the state prison, asking that a six months' county jail sentence be imposed on the ground that Miss Mackaye could suffer no more in San Quentin than in jail.

L. A. RECEIVERS FOR WAGY WILL RENEW INQUIRY

Will Work Out Program to Save Assets of Julian Corporation

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES, July 2.—In control of books, records and assets of the A. C. Wagy and company, Julius brokerage house, and fortified by the U. S. court of appeals ruling, the Los Angeles receivers were scheduled to meet with State Corporation Commissioner Jack Friedlander today.

At that time they will work on a constructive program through which it is hoped that assets of the corporation will be conserved for the benefit of Julian Petroleum corporation stockholders, and the investigation of the Wagy

CHINESE PIRATES HOLDING AMERICAN

WASHINGTON, July 2.—On demand of the American consul at Hankow, China, authorities have promised to send troops to rescue Captain Fisher, an American held for $20,000 ransom by Chinese pirates, the state department announced today.

Consul Frank P. Lockhart reported that Fisher, master of the Chichusen of the American Yangtze Rapids company, was seized together with a Chinese agent of the company. Another Chinese agent of the company was previously seized and held for $10,000 ransom.

The Chichusen was looted, the crew deserting, and another vessel of the company going to its relief was fired upon en route.

American naval authorities have given warning they can provide no assistance on the river above Ichang.

HUGE MARTIN COMMERCIAL CRAFT HERE

'City of Cleveland' Lands At Airport in Santa Ana To Take Part in Jubilee

PROGRAM UNDER WAY

Squadrons of Army, Navy Machines to Participate In Three-day Celebration

THE ARRIVAL of the "City of Cleveland," Glenn L. Martin's commercial plane, with its two occupants, Clifford Gildersleeve, secretary of the aviation committee of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, and Kenneth R. Cole, test pilot for the Glenn L. Martin company, and of more than 50 other planes from all sections of Southern California and eastern points officially opened the international Aviation Peace Jubilee here today. The Martin plane made the trip here from Cleveland in 28 hours and 30 minutes flying time.

A squadron of U. S. navy planes and a squadron of U. S. army planes arrived at the Martin airport soon after the "City of Cleveland" had rolled to a stop on the field. The "City of Cleveland" arrived here this morning from Las Vegas, Nev., making the trip from Las Vegas to Santa Ana in three hours and 15 minutes.

N. B. "Nick" Mamer, of Spokane, Wn., who arrived here yesterday, today is working on his machine, turning it up for the coming races.

Big Bomber Arrives Another of the planes to arrive here this morning was a huge navy bomber. The plane towers high above the other ships at the air meet. A crowd of several hundred persons was congregating at the airport this morning.

The occupants of the "City of Cleveland" were met by representatives of the Junior chamber of commerce and taken to St. Ann's Inn.

"We left Cleveland at 7:30 a. m. Monday, June 27, and arrived in Chicago, 330 miles away at 11 a. m.," Gildersleeve said. "We were met in Chicago by chamber of commerce representatives and taken into the city for lunch. We left Chicago at 3:40 p. m. and after flying five hours, ran out of gasoline and were forced to land in a corn field. We were three miles from Omaha. We got gas and sailed out of the corn field at 12:05 p. m., and landed at North Platte, Neb., at 3:20 p. m. The temperature at North Platte was 100 degrees and we pulled out at 5:30 p. m. The temperature dropped to 49 degrees soon after we took the air. The air changed soon after leaving North Platte and we went through everything known except a snow storm. We went through a Wyoming sand storm, a storm that whipped the ship from end to end, rain, fog and lots of thunder and lightning.

"We landed in Cheyenne at 8:30 p. m. June 28, and left at 6:35 a. m. the next morning. We landed at Rock Springs at 10:35 a. m., and played around there until 5 p. m. Weather reports were to the effect that there was a snow storm in the mountains and after our previous experiences we decided to stay there for the night. We left there Thursday morning, at 5:55 a. m., and arrived at Salt Lake City at 8:10 a. m. We made some personal calls in Salt Lake, refueled and left there at 12 o'clock.

Develop Bad Magneto

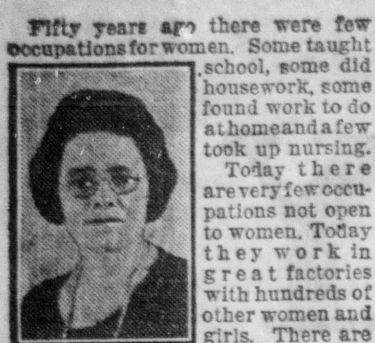

"We arrived at Milford, Utah, at 3:10 p. m. We had to use commercial gasoline here and developed a bad magneto. We made one attempt to get away at 5:15 p. m., but were forced to land

WOMEN CAN NOW DO MORE

Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Keeps Them Well

Fifty years ago there were few occupations for women. Some taught school, some did housework, some found work to do at home and a few took up nursing. Today there are a very few occupations not open to women. Today they work in great factories with hundreds of other women and girls. There are also women architects, lawyers, dentists, executives, and legislators. But all too often a woman wins her economic independence at the cost of her health.

Mrs. Elizabeth Chamberlain who works in the Unionall factory making overalls writes that she got "wonderful results" from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Chamberlain lives at 500 Monmouth St., Trenton, N. J. She recommends the Vegetable Compound to her friends in the factory and will gladly answer any letters she gets from women asking about it. Are you on the Sunlit Road to Better Health?

COUNTY JAIL PROBE MARKS TIME TODAY

Investigation of the Orange county jail was marking time today, awaiting the return of District Attorney Z. B. West Jr. from a northern trip, taken in connection with his probe of the case.

There were no new local developments. In Los Angeles, mysterious "federal" sources announced possession of an affidavit supporting the previously announced affidavit of Vern C. Pavey, federal prisoner who escaped from the local jail, and whose affidavit stated that he had been allowed by the jailors to make his escape unmolested. Pavey further charged that prisoners in the Orange county jail were favored if they could produce good looking women friends who would go out nights with the jailors.

Commenting on his affidavit, jail officials today pointed out that Hemmi had acted as attorney at one time for the reputed "federal agent" formerly a Santa Ana man, who is declared by the jailors to be at the bottom of the charges against the jail, in order to further a private grudge and to further a political plot against Sheriff Sam Jernigan.

"He was an agitator and trouble maker throughout his stay at the jail," said Head Jailor Orlo Moncrief. "While here he insisted on being allowed to go outside the jail to defend other prisoners in court, and was continually urging other prisoners to acts of petty offense. He was advisor to the man who is now including his spite against us, and his motive is all too plain to us."

"I can't believe that any serious weight will be given to the statements of a band of crooks and criminals, whose motives are so evident, and who have always robbed their country and violated its laws, instead of fighting for it. There is one thing worth noting about these affidavits makers. Without an exception, not one of them wears the button of the American Legion or is eligible to wear it."

Moncrief himself is a member of the American Legion.

"I can't see how the word of these criminals can be considered," he continued, "any more than I can understand why the federal government should employ as its agents men who have broken its laws and proven themselves unfit for trust."

SLEEPING WOMAN SLIGHTLY BETTER

LOS ANGELES, July 2.—Mrs. Clara Drummond, the "sleeping beauty" of Fresno, for 90 days lost to the conscious world, showed signs of improvement today, according to Dr. W. W. Dearborn, associate of Dr. William Peacock, who is attempting to bring the 21-year-old woman from her coma.

Mrs. Drummond, who three months ago inhaled a gas which deadened her brain cells, was brought to Los Angeles yesterday from Fresno by her husband, Walter Drummond.

Dr. Peacock is keeping her whereabouts of the sleeping beauty a secret, saying he must have absolute privacy and lack of annoyance to complete his work satisfactorily.

A statement of the patient's condition issued today, said she was beginning to show signs of recognition and was moving her eyes.

Rankins Drygoods Store Depicts Airport at Martin's Field

The International Air Peace Jubilee sponsored by the Hollywood Aero Club of Hollywood, California, the Santa Ana Aero club, and assisted to a successful completion through the co-operation of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, is receiving marked publicity from the show window of the Rankin store.

R. W. McKnight, display manager of Rankin's conceived the idea of visualizing for the public the air field where this big event will be held—he then set to work to design and create a window that would truthfully depict this great field and boost the latest aviation accomplishments. The field in general—where any visitor to the city may look and obtain his bearings in advance, is seen perfectly reproduced in this window. Even the wind indicators are to be seen. This aero field, the largest in California, given over to the international Martin of the Eddie Martin airport and James Irvine, is to be seen in miniature—if anyone is anxious to have it in his mind's eye before attending this Jubilee, he has but to stand for a short time before this window and get the complete picture.

In addition to the airport field there are many other interesting aviation features on display. The "Spirit of St. Louis"—a silver plating here at the time Pavey escaped. Commenting on his affidavit, jail officials today pointed out that Hemmi had acted as attorney at one time for the reputed "federal agent" formerly a Santa Ana man, who is declared by the jailors to be at the bottom of the charges against the jail, in order to further a private grudge and to further a political plot against Sheriff Sam Jernigan.

several months ago and went to a rooming house with her boy. Police were told Dempsey had been making frequent calls on her. This morning he made a call.

The landlady told police that a short time later she heard several shots in the Dempsey apartment.

A sister of the dead woman, Miss Elsie Carto, witnessed the shooting, police said, but she could not tell what provoked it.

JOHN ALWAYS SOURCE OF EMBARRASSMENT

LOS ANGELES, July 2.—John Dempsey, brother of William Harrison "Jack" Dempsey, has long been a source of embarrassment to the former heavyweight champion, police records here reveal.

Dempsey's police card in the identification bureau here shows that he was arrested at various times, on one occasion being charged with suspicion of insanity.

Detectives were called to the Dempsey home here March 17 and found Mrs. Dempsey suffering from a stab wound in the chest. The room bore indications of a struggle and Dempsey was said to have been under the influence of liquor. Mrs. Dempsey claimed the cutting was accidental and had occurred when she slipped and fell on a knife.

On a previous occasion, Mrs. Dempsey complained to police, that her husband was using liquor and drugs and asked that he be taken into custody.

In his efforts to have his brother settle down, the former champion purchased the Manhattan gymnasium here for John and Barney, another brother.

Another brother, Joe, is manager of Jack Dempsey's Barbara hotel here and a sister, Mrs. Lloyd Stander, also lives in this city.

bill, added his approval in conference with Mr. Coolidge this morning.

"We must equalize taxes rather than reduce them," he declared.

It is expected the plan will encounter serious opposition on the next congress. Independent and Democratic groups have a strangle hold on the next senate and they can wreck the plan if they choose.

Usually they have advocated major reductions for small taxpayers and their leaders have indicated they will maintain this principle in the battle to be staged soon after congress reconvenes.

company, held up since the two sets of receivers came into conflict, will be continued.

Meanwhile the Los Angeles receivers announced that a new Julian well has been brought in at the Alamitos field, the fifth since they took charge of the corporation. The Julian wells are now producing a total of 12,000 barrels of oil daily.

Officials in charge of the criminal investigation of the Julian corporation marked time today and no new developments were expected until the grand jury resumes its probe next Tuesday. Dr. E. J. Lickley, city prosecutor, announced that the filing of further injury complaints would be deferred until sometime next week when he expected to receive a new list of alleged money lenders from the district attorney.

Laborer Shot In Drunken Quarrel

FRESNO, July 2.—A sheriff's posse today was searching for A. P. Gordon, of Lemoore, in connection with the shooting of Jack Klissinger, 42, itinerant laborer, during a drinking bout here late last night. Hospital attaches said today Klissinger will probably die.

Gordon, who was known to his drinking partners as "Peggy," because he had a wooden leg, is believed to be hiding near the scene of the shooting. He is known to have had a revolver in his possession. Sheriff W. F. Jones said his posse would ferret out the fugitive before tonight.

The man could not emerge from his hiding without betraying his identity by the tell-tale wooden leg, Jones said.

mediate return to the hospital after their reception.

Leutenant Noville presented acting Ambassador Sheldon Whitehouse with a letter of introduction.

Only Balchen—who brought down the plane successfully after its flight—was showing no ill effects of his ordeal.

It was reported that Com. William S. Bainbridge, U. S. naval reserve, a distinguished surgeon, was nursing the flyers for a south pole flight, whose details had been kept secret.

Cars In Immovable Mass

Thousands of automobiles became immovably massed between the station and the hotel during the aviators' progress. Taxicab drivers refused to accept passengers, saying they wanted to see the procession.

Gurnee Munn, 8-year-old grandson of Rodman Wanmaker, was Byrd's principal welcomer at the hotel.

"In behalf of my grandfather, I welcome you to Paris and congratulate you on your great flight," he said.

Byrd had donned the uniform of a naval aviation commander, which he had brought from America.

Clarence D. Chamberlain, a guest at the Inter-Allied luncheon, said to the United Press: "Byrd had hard luck but he succeeded in his flight as soon as he crossed the ocean, regardless of where he landed."

NAVY FLIGHT AROUND WORLD CONSIDERED

WASHINGTON, July 2.—A navy flight around the earth at the equator has been recommended to Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, who is considering its feasibility.

Such a flight would require several hops and no details were made public today by Wilbur in announcing that the suggestion had been made. He did not reveal whether the suggestion came from within the navy or from outsiders interested in aviation.

The secretary considers such a flight more practical and of greater value to aviation than the proposed south polar flight of Com. Richard E. Byrd, who may be approached to undertake a 'round-the-world flight.

Byrd plans to begin his south polar expedition in September according to J. Lansing Callan, president of Airships, Inc., of Hammondsport, N. Y., who supplied the rubber boat in which Byrd and his three companions landed yesterday in France.

BYRD PLANNING FOR SOUTH POLE FLIGHT

PARIS, July 2.—Com. Richard Byrd's next great aerial adventure will be his flight across the south pole, starting from the ice fields off southern New Zealand.

Byrd announced definitely today he had decided on the south polar trip and was making his plans for the voyage.

Leutenant Noville and Berni Balchen will accompany Byrd, it was announced.

"The date of the flight," he said, "depends on circumstances which we cannot yet foresee. We probably will take two machines, one with three motors, the other with one. Terrific winds are constant in the polar regions, necessitating an unusual type of machine."

Immediately following their arrival here, the Cleveland aviators dispatched letters to the chamber of commerce aviation committee, to Clyde Downing, president of the chamber of commerce and to Frank Purinton, mayor of Santa Ana.

The meet program will open this afternoon with a series of races, endurance contests, and altitude trials. Special features are being arranged for Sunday and Monday.

Boys and girls of the Spurgeon school summer playground began their Fourth of July festivities when they entered a patriotic contest held under the supervision of L. W. Archer, superintendent on the Julia C. Lathrop school grounds. Nearly 100 children, dressed in patriotic costumes, participated.

Prizes of silk American flags were awarded the winners.

Little Miss Jane Anne Noble was adjudged to have had the best costume among all the entries. She wore a dress designed with the patriotic colors of red, white and blue.

Other prizes were as follows: Jack Ryan for the best decorated bicycle, Bobbie Noble for the best scooter, Florence Thwaite and Jean Thwaite tied for the best doll buggy, Lettie McKean and Dick Dodge tied for the best decorated wagon.

Honorary mention was given Marjorie Page, Dorothy Page, Frances Page, Elsie Page, Genevieve Vardy, Esther Belle Christian, Mary Grace Tomlinson, Jeanne Dodge, Byron Bates, Virginia Lee Graves, Agnes Mackey and Roberta Horton. The costumes were judged by Archer on the points of originality, neatness and how distinctively they were for the Fourth of July holidays.

The contest was held this year for the first time. Much interest was developed. Many of the children were carefully designed costumes, representing nurses, soldiers and other patriotic personages.

again. We spent the night there while Cole fixed the magneto, but it didn't stay fixed. We hopped over the mountains to Las Vegas, leaving Milford at 1:05 p. m. July 1, and arriving at Las Vegas at 3:50 p. m. Here we fixed the magneto again and after spending the night hopped off for Santa Ana at 6:15 a. m. today, arriving here at 9:30."

Immediately following their arrival here, the Cleveland aviators dispatched letters to the chamber of commerce aviation committee, to Clyde Downing, president of the chamber of commerce and to Frank Purinton, mayor of Santa Ana.

The meet program will open this afternoon with a series of races, endurance contests, and altitude trials. Special features are being arranged for Sunday and Monday.

Death Notices

A WORD OF COMFORT
Is it your verdict that life is a cruel procession of bitter chagrin? Have you concluded that nothing in life brings enduring satisfaction? Can you find contentment in external things? Only he who learns to be actually independent of anything outside of himself can know abiding peace. It is the voice in the soul of everlasting love that keeps a man happy and strong.

WHEELS SEIZED BY DEPUTY SHERIFFS

Under orders from the district attorney's office, deputy sheriffs yesterday confiscated four large "merchandise" wheels, which resemble roulette wheels, at Balboa.

The wheels were brought to the sheriff's office.
Officers said today no complaints had been issued against the owners of places where the wheels were found.

According to F. W. Howard, officer in charge of the detail which seized the wheels one was obtained at the C. W. Hutchings place, under the dance pavilion at Balboa, one at the place of C. A. Bachman, 110 Main street, one at the A. C. Van Horn place, under the pavilion and one at a place operated by Mark Hanna, Main street.

Local Briefs

Bobby Friend, 13 year old son of
Mr. and Mrs. Mark Friend, of South Pavilion street, is suffering from a serious case of tetanus caused by the little fellow stepping on a needle one week ago.

Charles Knuth, Villa Park rancher, was made defendant today in two damage actions filed by Chris Schroeder and Florence Barkhau, who claim to have been injured when an automobile in which they were riding came into collision with Knuth's car.

The week occurred March 12 at the intersection of Cambridge and Palm streets, Orange. In the court actions, Miss Barkhau demands $10,130, while Schroeder seeks judgment for $5000. Attorney Carl M. Heim, of Santa Ana, is counsel for the plaintiffs.

Schroeder claims loss of memory and extreme nervous shock, together with several rib fractures, as his damage. Miss Barkhau alleges that her neck and spine were permanently injured.

Two persons were fined in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court today for recklessly driving one automobile.

D. Sullivan, 20, 624 West One Hundred Twenty-sixth street, Los Angeles, was given a fine of $250 and his wife, Mrs. Mary Sullivan was fined $50.

Both were arrested by state traffic officers C. J. Cain and Walter Meyer last night on the Irvine boulevard. Both had been drinking, they admitted in court today.

According to Cain, Mrs. Sullivan was driving when the officers attention first was directed to them, but when the Sullivan car was overtaken, Sullivan was driving, it was said.

Sullivan was held in jail here today, while his wife was allowed to go on her own recognizance to raise the $300 necessary for the fine.

SUES AVIATOR FOR HOLDING AIRPLANE

Declaring that E. J. Martin, Santa Ana aviator, is unlawfully holding possession of an airplane belonging to Otto Schaffer, Anaheim flier, connected with the Brea air field, a suit has been filed in superior court by Schaffer, demanding recovery of the plane and damages.

In lieu of possession of the plane, Schaffer would have $900, its alleged value. He further wants judgment for $20 per day damages for its alleged unlawful detention by Martin since February 17.

F. H. Jacobs, Brea attorney, filed the action on behalf of Schaffer.

Bride At 13 Is Grandmother At 28 Years Of Age

Milan, July 2.—Only 28 years old, Signora Margherita Tocci is a grandmother.

She was married when she was 13, and has a daughter who, also, is a wife at the same tender age,
has just had a daughter.

OCTOPUS AND ITS DIVER CONQUEROR

VETERAN DIVER PLANS OCTOPUS HUNTING TRIP

Captain Ole Eliassen, veteran diver, who killed a 15-foot octopus and captured several little ones
Thursday night after a 30-minute battle in the harbor entrance channel, announced today that he expects to embark on an octopus hunt some time next week.

Capt. Eliassen believes that another octopus is in the old fishing boat "Muriel," which sank in the port entrance last year. It was while working on the "Muriel" as a diver that Capt. Eliassen discovered the octopus Thursday evening.

Capt. Eliassen declares that the Octopus which he killed was a small one compared to others he has seen and fought. At one time he fought and killed an octopus which measured 30 feet across, he asserted today.

The octopus is being exhibited by Eliassen, who is making a small charge for viewing it.

SOUTH MAIN STREET SPEEDERS ARRESTED

Santa Ana's new "speedway" is open.
That is just another way of saying that South Main street, under improvement for many weeks is again open to public use, but it's a "speedway" nevertheless, according to city motorcycle officers.

Reports already are coming into police station relative to the "humming" of motors along the new smooth concrete street, and as a result, motor cops are watching for speeders like Paris watched for Lindbergh.

So far, three arrests have been made on the new street, one for speeding and two for operating cars without mufflers—but then the street has only been open one day.

Gerald Twist, 1520 North Main street, has the honor (?) of being the first arrested for speeding on South Main street. He was arrested yesterday for speeding 35 miles an hour down the smooth highway.

Thomas McCollum, 348 North Cleveland street, Orange, and Thomas Chapman, 602 East Chestnut street, Santa Ana, will appear for not having mufflers on their machines, it was said.

JUDGE ALLEN TO GO TO SAN FRANCISCO

Superior Judge James L. Allen, of Santa Ana, has been ordered by the state judicial council to proceed to San Francisco on July 15, and reside for 10 days in superior court there, he announced today.

Beyond the fact that it is a criminal trial, Judge Allen has not been informed concerning the case over which he will preside, he said. His transfer to the northern city was arranged under the system established by the last state legislature, by which a judicial council for the state controls
the assignment of judges.

Under the former system judges could arrange transfers or exchange of courts with other judges privately, or were assigned by the governor.

MRS. SARAH WINTER IS CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Sarah J. Winter, 73, wife of Stephen C. Winter, rancher near Orange, passed away at her home last night after a lingering illness.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning, at 10 o'clock, from the Gillogly funeral home in Orange, with interment in Fair-haven cemetery.

Mrs. Winter leaves her husband and one daughter, Mrs. Harry Field, of Orange.

The deceased had been a member of the Baptist church for 50 years and had been a resident of the Orange district for the past 11 years.

You And Your Friends

Please Phone or Mail Items

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Paine, 1503 French street, left yesterday by motor for Yosemite Valley, where they will pass their vacation.

W. B. Williams, cashier of the First National bank, and Attorney Joe C. Burke, former United States district attorney, with Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Burke, sailed at noon today from Wilmington on a three weeks' trip to Honolulu.

They are to be six days on the water going over and six days returning. A touring schedule of the islands has been arranged for their stay.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Baker, 1112
French street, left today for a few days at their cottage in the Forest Home district. They were accompanied by their friends, Dr.
and Mrs. Sebus, of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Margaret Spurgeon of the Bungalow apartments and Mr.
and Mrs. Robert Spurgeon of 2435 Valencia street, will leave this evening for Arroyo Grande where they will spend one or two weeks.

Mrs. L. Harter, 1105 West Third street, is to leave by rail Monday morning for Seattle where she will attend the N. E. A. convention and visit relatives. Later she will be joined by her son Melvin who is spending the summer with Mrs.
Harter's parents and other relatives.

Mrs. Harter will visit her brother in Portland and her parents at The Dalles, in Oregon.

Mrs. Rosa Gartner, 1057 West
Eighth street, left yesterday on the California Limited for New York City, where she will visit relatives for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Wilson, of this city are guests of the Plaza hotel, Hollywood.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Drage, Mrs.
W. D. Searcy and daughter, Miss Lucille Searcy, of 1043 West Fourth street are motoring to Salt Lake City for a few weeks' visit with friends and relatives.

A friendship which had its inception in an unusual manner was recently renewed when Mrs. H. H.
Whitehead and her daughter, Miss Katherine Whitehead, 902 Brown street, were joyfully surprised by a visit from Mr. and Mrs. Ray R.
Williams and Mr. and Mrs. John Eliason of Waynesburg, Ohio, who are on a motor trip through the state. Fifteen years ago, Miss Katherine, then a little girl, placed her name and address in a box of apricots she was packing. The box was opened in a store at Waynesburg, by Mrs. Williams, then a girl of about Miss Katherine's age.

A correspondence ensued which has continued until the present time, and has been a source of much pleasure to the correspondents and their families. Motor trips with their hostesses were taken in Orange county after the guests' arrival, and the sight of grove and field and old wells, especially the last, of which they had read much but had formed no idea of appearance, were a source of wonder.

They went to Newport Beach for their first glimpse of the Pacific ocean and to view harbor improvements. The travelers left today for northern California.

Mrs. George Mills of 618 East
Third street is to leave tomorrow for Los Angeles, where she will join friends on a trip to Yosemite of about two weeks.

Miss Blanche Yocum, assistant in the office of Dr. J. J. Jacobs, is booked by the Westgate Steamship agency to leave Tuesday on the S.
S. Admiral Benson for San Francisco, where she will spend several days and will then go to San Jose for a few days, and then to the Sierra Nevada mountains. Miss Yocum expects to return about August 1.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Clark, accompanied by their two sons, Marion and Leland, left this afternoon for an extended motor trip which will include visits at Waldo, Arkansas; New Orleans; several Florida points; Washington, New York; Boston; Niagara Falls. They will return to Santa Ana about September 15.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Kelly of 1119
West Fourth street, Mr. and Mrs.
John Lacy, Mr. and Mrs. W. F.
Clary and Mr. and Mrs. R. O.
Stearns, also of this city, returned yesterday from an enjoyable motor trip to the region of Lake Almanor, about eighty miles east of Red Bluff, Calif., where they spent two weeks. The lake is about fifteen miles long and five miles wide.
Fishing in that country was good,

but will be better, Mr. Kelly says, about August 1, when the water will be lower than it is now. The party returned by way of Red Bluff, Quincy and Nevada City.
The roads were found to be good,
with the exception of a number of grades which were steep. Plenty of snow about five feet deep was in evidence. Although Mr. Kelly enjoyed the trip and traveled through a beautiful country, he says that he would not trade an acre here for one hundred there.

Frank Evans of 623 Shelton street and Dwight Wilcox of 506 Eastside street, have returned from San Francisco, where they have been employed by the Fluor Construction company for several months.

A happy little boy twelve years of age, Owen G. Owens of 302 West Bishop street left yesterday on the California Limited for Kansas City, Mo., for a visit with relatives.
Owen is much elated at this opportunity of demonstrating his ability to travel alone.

Pleads Guilty
John W. Hastings pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of forgery and threw himself on the mercy of the court. Superior Judge H. C.
Ames received his application for probation and set the hearing for July 8 at 2:30 a. m. Hastings admitted forging a $25 check which was passed to the Fullerton branch of the Bank of Italy.

DIVORCE CASE OF CHAPLIN IS NEARING COURT

LOS ANGELES, July 2.—The Chaplin divorce case drew nearer its scheduled sensational court battle today with Lita Grey Chaplin's answer to her comedian-husband's cross-complaint on record.

In a complete denial of all charges made by Charlie Chaplin and adding a number of allegations that were not contained in her original bill for divorce, the girl-wife asked that the cross-complaint be denied.

The wife of the millionaire movie actor was pictured as a frequent visitor to the junk shops because of Chaplin's asserted economic troubles and in her answer she declared that she had been forced to buy a $2.50 hat in a San

Irvine Secretary Wins Daughter of Dixie For His Bride

Announcements received this morning by scores of interested Santa Ana friends, conveyed information of the wedding on Saturday evening, June 25, in Bedford, Va., of Miss Mary Jordan Stone, charming southern girl who has visited her uncle and cousin in Santa Ana, Dr. J. P. Boyd and Miss Rosa Boyd; and William Bradford Hellis, son of Mrs. Ada Bradford Hellis of Tustin.

The announcement came as a delightful surprise, for only the members of the two families, knew of the romance that had flourished ever since Miss Stone spent a year in Santa Ana, teaching at Fountain Valley school. But friends were kept in complete ignorance, hence the departure of Mr. Hellis for Virginia occasioned no comment when he left two weeks ago.

The wedding was a home affair, and was an elaborate and beautiful ceremony. The young people left at once for a honeymoon trip which was to embrace many of the larger cities of the west, Chicago, Denver, San Francisco, and bring them eventually to Santa Ana and the pleasant ranch home near Tustin, where Mrs. Hellis and Miss E. Gertrude Hellis, mother and sister of the young man, will extend a warm welcome.

Mr. Hellis is secretary of the Irvine company, and is a prominent Mason and Elk of the community. He is a descendant of the Bradford family, prominent in the colonial history of the United States. His bride is a daughter of the old South and her family history also, is interwoven with that of the nation. She was educated at Columbia university, as was her sister, Julia Stone Summers, talented and prominent violinist of Lynchburg, Va. They are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Backstrom Stone of Bedford, and cousins also of Mrs. Roy Browning of this city, as well as of Dr. and Miss Boyd.

Household Hints

Pretty Garnish
Slices of lemon that have half their rind covered with powdered parsley and the other half with paprika make an effective garnishing for fish dishes.

Colorful Vases
Tin flower holders, gayly colored and often having pictures of scenes or gardens on them, make lovely vases for summer porch use.

Child's Coverlet
A summer bed-spread, fashioned from checked or flowered material with plain goods for border, will be twice as pleasing to little Mary if her name is worked on it.

Baby Gift
Left-over bits of silk can be utilized advantageously by making into a smart, old-fashioned quilt for a baby gift.

Clean Garbage Pail
Line your garbage pail with fresh newspaper each morning and you will find that the unpleasant task of keeping it clean is mitigated.

Door Knockers
A knocker gives an intimate, personal touch to the door. Chinese junks, baskets of flowers or designs that have meaning for the family are always good.

Redecorating Plans
In redecorating your home remember that light ceilings, medium walls and dark floors without too much contrast or conspicuous figures form the most liveable rooms.

New Dusters
Mitten dusters, of fluffy, chemically treated yarn like mops, fit snugly over the hand and polish as they clean.

Freshen Flowers
Cut stem of flowers under fresh water and then add a teaspoon of salt or a couple of aspirin tablets to keep them fresh.

Disposition Savers
Motorists would do well to purchase one of the new stop-devices little metal pieces which slip under a tire and actually keep even the biggest car from rolling while a tire is being changed.

Garden Mat
An odd piece of linoleum can make a garden mat which will keep the gardener's knees dry while he weeds or digs.

Spring Dressing
French dressing for spring salads should utilize lemon instead of vinegar because there is a tendency toward too much acid in spring foods.

Fireplace Screen
A decorative screen of hammered brass or of painted parchment, silk or glazed cretonne, placed in front of an unused fireplace in summer often adds a new and pleasing note to the room.

Renewing Hinges
Hinges on doors and locks on screens should be examined closely after the rainy season to prevent admission of flies and other insects.

Asparagus Uses
Asparagus, though expensive, can earn its way if housewives will use stalks for soup and seasoning after tips have been served.

Italian Broccoli
Italian broccoli, served with Hollandaise sauce, makes one of the most appetizing and "different" of luncheon dishes.

Radish Flavoring
Radish leaves, cooked with spinach or other greens, add a flavor decidedly pleasing and new.

CHARMING SANTA ANA GIRL IS WEDDED IN LOS ANGELES

MISS SARA SEBASTIAN, TITIAN-HAIRED DAUGHTER OF MR. AND MRS. JOHN SEBASTIAN OF SOUTH BRISTOL STREET, WHO TOOK HER PARENTS AND FRIENDS BY SURPRISE BY QUIETLY WEDDING JULIAN BOWLES IN LOS ANGELES ON THE FINAL DAY OF JUNE. MISS SEBASTIAN HAD JUST COMPLETED A FIVE YEARS' COURSE AT UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA AT LOS ANGELES.

Not willing to allow the month of June, with its well-known allure for brides, to slip by without having their own wedding to add its charm to the days, Miss Sara Sebastian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sebastian, 400 South Bristol street, and Julian Bowles of Long Beach, were wedded on the final day of the month, by the Rev. E. K. Bransford at his home in Los Angeles.

The choice of the Rev. Mr. Bransford as officiating minister, added a unique touch of sentiment to the occasion, for it was dictated by the fact that just 36 years ago, he officiated at the wedding of the bride's parents, John Sebastian and Miss Ella Ragsdale. Again, four years ago, his services were required by the elder daughter of that happy couple, Miss Lela Sebastian, and her fiancé, Julian Mathews. So it was natural that when the final child to leave the Sebastian home roof should decide to wed, she should turn to the minister who had conducted the marriage ceremony for her parents and for her sister.

Lovelessness of Bride
Miss Sebastian was very lovely as a bride, her costume of golden-brown satin crepe—so soft that it resembled chiffon—being especially becoming to that lovelessness which is enhanced by a mass of copper hair. With the costume, she wore a wide-brimmed hat of deep blue and its color note was repeated in the bridal bouquet she carried, for mingled with its bride roses, lilies of the valley and maidenhair fern, were tiny clusters of flowers of the exact hue of the hat.

The ceremony was preceded by a brief musical program to which Julian Mathews, brother-in-law of the bride, and one of the city's accomplished musicians, contributed a cornet solo, Cadman's "At Dawning." Mrs. Roy Dial of Long Beach gave piano numbers including Loengrin's wedding march as a signal for the entry of bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Mathews and Mr. and Mrs. Dial (friends of long standing of Mr. Bowles) were the only ones present at the ceremony, since the young people wished to maintain strict secrecy until they were well started on their honeymoon trip.

Home in Beach City
This will take them north, and upon their return they will welcome their friends at a pleasant home in Long Beach where Mr. Bowles is connected with the Pacific Southwest Discount corporation. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bowles of Lubbock, Tex., Mr. Bowles sr. being a retired cattleman of the southwest. The son was educated in the schools of that city, and the Texas College of Technology.

His bride, the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. John Sebastian, graduated from Santa Ana high school where she was very popular and active in all student body affairs. She represented the high school in debating and in the state Shakespearean contest held in Berkeley. She then went to the University of California in Los Angeles, where she has been prominent in all student and social activities. She is a member of Phi Omega Pi sorority and was elected to the high position of president last year.

Miss Sebastian thought she was keeping her engagement and wedding plans a complete secret from her Phi Omega Pi sisters, but two days before leaving for home at the close of school, she found herself the honoree at a delightful party where she was showered with handsome and widely varied gifts.

Best music at the Knights of Pythias Dance tonight, Fifth and Bdwy.

Forest Home Cottages Are in Demand by Vacationers

"Santa Ana in the Mountains," or as it is more familiarly known, Forest Home, is a gay spot these summer days, as one by one, the cabins are opened and their owners greet groups of friends for a day or a week, revel in the cool mountain scene and the crisp mountain air, and try to satisfy a ravenous mountain appetite.

The Glorious Fourth promises to be glorious indeed at the popular mountain resort, and hosts of Santa Anans have made it a point to open their cabins for the long week-end holiday. J. A. Cranston, city superintendent of schools, and Mrs. Cranston are among those who will celebrate the holiday there, as they are occupying the Fred Rowland cottage for two weeks. The H. C. Heads have been enjoying the charms of the resort for some time. Mr. Head commuting to his business duties here from time to time. Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Knight, (Jr. Head) spend frequent week-ends with them.

Dr. and Mrs. John McAuley and their interesting little daughters, are now at their new cottage at the "Valley of the Falls," the doctor coming down to his practise here and motoring back for the week-ends. Mr. and Mrs. William G. Knox follow the same plan, Mrs. Knox and Miss Marjorie remaining at their cottage and Mr. Knox joining them each week-end to forget his duties as city trustee.

Frank J. Was has been able to forget the cares of a banker as he enjoyed the cool shade and pine scented air with Mrs. Was and their youngsters, for they have had the E. B. Sprague cabin for a short time. George Dunton, of the Lincoln-Ford agency, and school board president, with Mrs. Dunton and their small people, were guests at Torrey's Camp last week, while the W. B. Martin family is occupying the Martin-Sturgeon cottage for several weeks.

Scores of others were expected to reach Forest Home today, and join the constantly increasing crowd spending the holidays in the mountains.

Birthday Party Is Enjoyable Affair

A very enjoyable little affair was a party at the E. T. Winchell home, 616 West Sixth street, Wednesday afternoon in honor of Miss Madeline Winchell's eleventh birthday.

The early part of the afternoon was spent in playing games on the lawn; later the youngsters were entertained indoors, when Charline Chambers danced and Miss Helen Winchell rendered vocal and piano solos. The prizes of the afternoon were awarded to Ruth Baker, Jeanette Brown, and Preston Piper.

Punch and cake were served; favors were dainty little baskets of mints. After the refreshments Miss Madeline opened a number of packages containing attractive gifts. Those enjoying the afternoon were Madeline Winchell, Imogene Howard, Alice McKee, Charline Chambers, Jacqueline Smith, Ida Montgomery, Ruth Baker, Jeanette Brown, Maurine Howard, Preston Piper, Clayton McKelth, Percy Winchell and Floyd Montgomery.

O. E. S.

Yesterday's luncheon and afternoon of cards, will remain in the minds of the Santa Ana O. E. S. Bridge club members as one of the pleasantest of their series of summer parties, and all will anticipate an early invitation to enjoy again the lovely garden of the Willard G. Pagenkopp home at 508 East Bishop street, where the gay affair was staged.

The members assembled at mid-day, each bearing her favorite present, and adding to the delicious luncheon menu. Mrs. Pagenkopp saved them the necessity of taking table service, and had small tables arranged very attractively beneath shady walnut trees where the picnic meal was enjoyed.

Before cards were introduced for the afternoon amusement, two small sons of the home entertained the guests very delightfully; Master Ralph, seven years old, played two violin numbers, each suited to a garden party, MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose" and "Mighty Lak a Rose." Then his little brother, Weldon, only three, stood on a chair and recited like a little man. His recitations were "A Simple Thing," "Not So Easy" and "Tom Thumb."

The bridge session which followed, brought victory to the Georgia Wyckoff, whose reward was a hand-painted luncheon set. Mrs. Sam Jernigan and Mrs. H. G. Lyman tied for second score, and the latter won a hand-embroidered linen towel on cutting the cards. A hand-painted plate consoled Mrs. Jennie Shippe for low score. As the afternoon waned, the guests enjoyed iced punch, and at the close of the card games, ice cream and cake were served. Mrs. Nellie Dodson, mother of the hostess, adding in all such friendly details. Farewells were taken of Mrs. Frank McClain, for she and Mr. McClain were to leave today for a leisurely trip to Oregon where they will make their home.

her pupils, was urged to give some readings and kindly gave: "Mrs. Winkie's Grandson," "How Willie Earned Money," Charles Christian told the story of "The Three Bears." Later delicious refreshments were served in cafeteria style by the following committee members, Mrs. Cloyes, Mrs. McKee, Mrs. McFadden, Mrs. McKee, Nellie Reed, Miss Inez Cloyes, and the hostess, Mrs. Searles. Mrs. Cowles and Miss Helen Battey also assisted the committee.

AT THE THEATER

Alan Hale and Leatrice Joy in a scene from "Vanity," current attraction at the Yost Broadway theater.

WEST COAST WALKER
Monte Blue, starred as the railroad engineer, in "The Black Diamond Express" which closes tonight at the West Coast-Walker theater, is of the railroad family. He once before took the part of engineer in "The Limited Mail."

Monte, when speaking of the comradeship that exists among all those who have seen a part of the adventure of railroad, told of an engineer he knew, who, after receiving a telegram that his wife had died, took his train over a ten hour run.

"If honor is becoming a past virtue among some of us," said Blue "it is certainly a present virtue among the men of steel and steam. To them, as to the actor, the play must go on, whatever happens back stage. My father, an engineer, was killed in an accident, and the men for whom he worked got me my first real job as fireman. To be in a railroad play is to me like taking a trip back to the old home town."

In support of Monte Blue are Edna Murphy, Claire McDowell, Myrtle Stedman, and William Denarest.

Fanchon and Marco have sent down one of their best arranged five-act specialty shows for the stage. Bobby Wolf and his great band handle the music.

TEMPLE THEATER

Lary Semon leads a clever cast in "The Perfect Clown" as the comedy feature of a double bill showing at the Temple theater for the last time tonight. Wolfheart, the wonder dog, in "The Big Stunt" is the other half of the bill.

Never before has Douglas Fairbanks waxed so enthusiastic over the success and admiration of a picture than he has over "The Mark of Zorro," his production which will be the feature attraction at the Temple theater, beginning Sunday.

Those critics who have viewed "The Mark of Zorro" have proclaimed that Fairbanks has excelled any of his previous performances. This is due to some extent to the ingenious story and the opportunities afforded "Doug" to make the greatest use of his athletic ability.

Noah Beery, Robert McKim, Charles Hill Mailes and Marguerite De LaMotte, his leading lady, are collected in his cast.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

Appearing in one of the strongest roles of her screen career, Leatrice Joy will be seen at the Yost Broadway theater for the last time tonight in her latest star picture, "Vanity." Charles Ray is featured as leading man and Alan Hale has the featured villain's role.

The story deals with a young society woman who is to wed a rich young man. She accidentally meets a sailor whom she had encountered in France during the war and on the night before the date set for her wedding, he convinces her to enter her aboard the vessel of which he is the skipper. When it is too late she realizes that she has been trapped and the subsequent scenes are said to be intensely dramatic. The skipper is killed by a vicious ship's cook and he in turn—well, it would be unfair to the reader to reveal the ending of this remarkably thrilling photoplay.

Unlike her recent pictures, "Vanity" affords Miss Joy the type of role in which she made her first big success in "Manslaughter," "The Ten Commandments," "Saturday Night," and "Triumph," the Cecil B. DeMille productions that paved the way for her elevation to stardom.

Miss Joy's remarkable flare for comedy was evident in the humorous scenes of these dramatic roles, and this talent was capitalized in her starring pictures, "Eve's Leaves," "The Clinging Vine," "Nobody's Widow" and "For All my Sins." "Vanity" affords her a chance to show her versatility.

How an ambitious amateur served an apprenticeship in vaudeville, blossomed on Broadway in the gayest night club of the street, and finally became the toast of the town as the star of a big musical revue, serves as the strong plot against which are set colorful backgrounds of Manhattan atmosphere.

Backstage shots peep into the underworld and a strong theme of "mother love" is among the highlights of the film.

Lois Wilson, presenting a brand new characterization, as a jazz singing chorus girl, is the star of the hit with Philip Strange, Louis John Bartels and Sam Hardy heading the supporting cast.

Two beauties, Barbara Stanwick, and June Collyer, now under contract to Kane, make their film debuts in the picture which boasts a score of Broadway celebrities including "Bunny" Weldon, Tammany Young and Lillian Lorraine, Joseph Boyle directed.

WEST COAST OFFERS
FILM FUN CLASSICKathleen Norris's Comedy,
'Callahans and Murphys'
Opens Tomorrow

"The Callahans and the Murphys," which comes to the West Coast-Walker theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, is a classic in screen fun. From the opening reel to the final fadeout it chronicles the hilarious combats, feuds, quarrels and reconciliations between two neighboring Irish families of the New York tenements. Two lovable but belligerent Irish mothers raise their broods next door. Wealth comes to one family, romance to both, then misunderstanding and what looks like tragedy becomes comedy of the gayest type.

Adapted from Kathleen Norris' famous story, it scores a new triumph on the screen. George Hill, the director, has based the comedy on natural situations and real-life happenings. An unusual cast, including Sally O'Neil, Marie Dressler, Gertrude Olmsted, Polly Moran, Larry Gray, Frank Currier, Drew Demarest, Tom Lewis, Turner Savage, Monty O'Grady and Dawn O'Day have made the film one prolonged howl of mirth.

Fanchon and Marco's latest and snappiest idea is entitled "Pep." George Givot, a famous Ziegfeld entertainer, heads the cast of fun-makers. Givot has been associated with eastern musical comedies, and has made a name for himself in footlight circles. In the west, he is not so well known, but is going over big wherever he plays. Featured with Givot are Frank Mitchell and Jack Durant, a couple of comic acrobats, and Jane Mitchell, a "Blues-singing" Usherette.

Bobby Wolf and his band are co-featured.

YOST THEATRE

Film cowboys are poor insurance risks. But when one stops to consider the daily risks there "graduate" riders of the plains take, it is a wonder that there are any cowboys left in Hollywood. During any year since the films started, many of these horsemen have been injured, some permanently, in the performance of their hazardous duties, all stories to the contrary notwithstanding.

Take the case of the three cowboys injured during the filming of "Wild Horse Canyon," in which Yakima Canutt is the star, and which closes at the Yost theater Monday. So badly were these men hurt during a particularly thrilling riding scene that their film days in Hollywood are over. When they leave the hospital they will either return to the monotonous grind of the cattle country, or follow other lines of work. Broken in body, if not in spirit, they are through as far as motion picture work is concerned. And all because the public wants realism with a capital "R" in its film entertainment.

'ROUGH RIDERS' AT YOST HERE SUNDAYPhotoplay of Picturesque Spanish-American War Troupe Awaited

It is in 1898. Cuba struggling for liberty. Spanish oppression. American protests. Suddenly the U. S. battleship Maine is blown up.

War comes. Young Theodore Roosevelt issues a call for volunteers. Cowboys—outlaws—adventurers—millionaires and duds assemble at San Antonio in response to his call. Thus the famous regiment, "The Rough Riders" is formed under the extraordinary leadership of Teddy Roosevelt.

Observing the arrival of the Rough Riders from a bicycle built for two are Mary and her sweet-heart, Bert, two young people from San Antonio. Mary's admiration for the Rough Riders leads the timid Bert to enlist, in order to appear a hero in her eyes.

A handsome, dashing Rough Rider, who is no other than Stewart Van Brunt, millionaire from New York, appears on the scene. Mary is thrilled at the attention paid her by this new arrival. Bert senses the situation. A jealous hatred springs up between the two boys.

Regiment Leaves
The regiment leaves for Cuba. Mary is left behind. The two lads, bitter enemies, are ordered to bunk together. The trials and anguish of war, however, slowly dissipate the feeling of hatred existing between the two volunteers.

With food scarce and the terrible fever taking its toll, the horrors of war are gradually realized. Then come the skirmishes, which climax in the never-to-be-forgotten charge up San Juan hill.

Bert, the boy whom everybody thought a coward, seizes his opportunity to prove himself worthy of Mary. Blindly up the hill he rushes—followed by the others. He is wounded. On and on he goes—inspiring those in back of him to follow. A terrible hand-to-hand battle ensues. Bert is again wounded—the Spanish positions are captured.

Under Heavy Fire
Under the heavy fire Stewart carries Bert back to the hospital tent. Sent for by the doctor, Stewart learns the tragic news. Bert is lying there barely alive. In his last moments he shakes hands with Stewart and gives him a little American flag, which Mary had given him in San Antonio. The dying man's last message is, "Tell her I died like a man."

Bert's heroic life is over. Stewart, emotion welling up within him, weeps over his new found buddy. Later news comes of another victory at Manila. The war is over. The Rough Riders embark for home.

Stewart visits Mary to carry out the last wishes of his comrade. He duly performed Stewart is about to leave. With tear-stained eyes, Mary confesses her love as she murmurs, "I have been waiting for you so long, and now you want to run away."

Such is the brief outline of the story, "The Rough Riders" which comes to the Yost Spurgeon theater for one entire week starting tomorrow.

MAGNETO RUN HEADLIGHTS TO BE RULED OFF STATE ROADS

Battery Operated Lights Must Be Used in California After Sept. 1

ORDERS RECEIVED BY STATE POLICE

Officers Believe That There Are Few Autos of That Type Running

Automobiles equipped with magneto-operated headlights will be barred from the state highways of California after September 1, according to an announcement made this week by Frank G. Snook, superintendent of the Motor Vehicle department, in a bulletin issued from his office.

The ban on machines so equipped was enacted by the 1923 legislature, the time elapsing since that time having been extended the owners of cars to permit them to re-equip their cars.

Officers have been instructed to enforce the law to the letter.

Officers here are of the opinion that there are few of the magneto-operated headlights yet in the state, the number probably being a few hundred. These are of an ancient model, and are on cars of a small and popular make, it was declared.

TELEGRAPH PASS IS 98 PERCENT PERFECT

The Telegraph Pass section of the Old Spanish trail route between Yuma and Wellton, Arizona, now under construction, is 98 percent complete, according to a recent report received from the touring department of the National Automobile club. When this road is open to traffic it will shorten the distance between these two points 6.5 miles. The approach to the Gillespie Bridge is now completed and part of this road is being used by the public. The Gillespie Dam bridge is 80 per cent completed. Construction was delayed on account of heavy rains. The crossing is still made on the apron of Gillespie dam except during high water stages.

DODGE NAMED HEAD OF AUTO TRADES BODY

H. C. Dodge, formerly with the Auto Trades association, of Los Angeles, has been chosen secretary and manager of the Orange County Automotive Dealers' association, it was announced here today by Harry D. Riley, president of the organization.

For the present, the secretary and manager will maintain his headquarters at the Riley garage in Anaheim. Reorganization of the association in Orange county has been in progress for a few weeks and success of the movement has reached the point where employment of a manager is justified.

Plans have been completed for a meeting Wednesday noon of each week of the executive board, with the conference being held each week in a different city.

Riley stated today that arrangements were being made for a general meeting of the organization at Elks clubhouse, Anaheim, on the evening of July 15. The meeting will be preceded by a dinner and a surprise program will be arranged.

The Owens river which forms the eastern boundary of the area, winds through the lower end of Long valley and enters a deep gorge where, for more than 12 miles, it runs between walls of solid rock and then emerges into Owens valley. On its plunging path, it forms many pools where rainbow trout hide in the cool depths. Convict and McGee creeks, which enter Long valley a few miles above the gorge, provide wonderful sport. Convict lake is one of the most popular lakes in this district. This lake received its name because of a battle which occurred there in 1871 between a gang of escaped convicts and a posse of settlers. Mt. Morrison, located nearby and rising to a height of 12,245 feet, was named for one of the posse who was killed in the fight. At "Tom's Place" where the main highway crosses Rock creek, a good mountain lateral is had into the back country, reaching lower Rock Creek lake. Here and also in the long chain of lakes above, may be found excellent trout fishing. Near by are Hilton lakes reached by a good trail.

Beautiful scenes await those who drive to Mt. Pinos, off the beaten path, in the Ridge Route country, according to Joe Finley, local dealer for the Reo and Stutz lines, following a trip by a party in a Wolverine to the mount on a road that has the distinction of being the highest in Southern California.

Has Distinction of Being Highest State Road

Enjoying the distinction of being the highest road in Southern California, the trail up Mt. Pinos shows few wheeltracks except those of the forest ranger and his deputies who use it as a lookout station for forest fires.

This declaration was made today by Joe Finley, local distributor for the Reo and Stutz lines, following greetings by a party in a Wolverine who recently made a trip to the top of the mountain.

The Reo Wolverine's trail led to Los Angeles, over Cahuenga pass and into San Fernando, Newhall and Saugus. Then the Ridge Route loomed ahead. Between the roadhouse on the Ridge known as Gorman's, the car turned off the highway to the left at a sign which pointed to Frazier Mountain park. It is not easy to miss this turn, if one is looking for it, because a rustic arch has been built over the entrance way and a well traveled dirt road leads toward the mountain. Past Frazier mountain and over a slight divide into Cuddy valley the Wolverine wound its way, going on through Lockwood valley, and then to Mt. Pinos by following signs directing to that point.

Except for the presence of the road, there is no sign of civilization within view. Long vistas open up between the foliage to reveal tier after tier of lower lying ridges. Nowhere is there a roof, a tiled field, a litter of refuse or other sign to indicate that man has ever passed this way.

One is not offended by the sight of an occasional trail of a mockingbird, or the sharp rat-a-tat of a woodpecker. Time is at a standstill, for out here it is measured in centuries and not in days.

The Wolverine party had one request to make, if there be any who take this jaunt, and that is to leave this virgin spot as unspoiled as it is found. One of its charms is the absence of tin cans, bits of paper, and other unsightly objects. It is little trouble to dispose of these things where they will not intrude upon the view of others.

FALCON-KNIGHT MOTOR RUNS 21 DAYS IN TESTS

The Falcon Knight motor started at the display room of the Falcon Knight Motor Sales, Inc., 117 East Fifth street, on June 4, was stopped just four hours short of 21 days.

The motor was in continuous operation at a speed that would propel a car at the rate of 25 miles an hour, and according to the official score card, no adjustments were made, no change of oil was made and temperature of the water never exceeded 160 degrees. The machine would have covered 12,137 miles. One quart of water was used and 27 quarts and 13 ounces of oil were consumed, averaging 44 1/2 miles to the quart of oil.

According to Edward H. Houtz, manager, Clayton Landreth, of Capistrano, was awarded the prize of $100 credit on a new Falcon for having guessed nearest the correct amount of oil consumed by the motor in its long operation. Landreth's guess was six gallons and three and one-half quarts.

EMBARGO AGAINST FRUIT OF MEXICO

Do not attempt to bring fruit back from Mexico into the United States is the warning issued by the Automobile Club of Southern California to motorists visiting the republic to the south.

The bulletin just issued by the United States department of agriculture advises that mangoes, oranges, sweet limes, peaches, guavas and a dozen other products of the country below the line, are included in the embargo against bringing fruits across the border. This ruling is made necessary, it is explained, to keep out boll weevil and other crop destroying insects and diseases.

CAMPAIGN SOON TO BE STARTED AGAINST HEAVY LOADED TRUCKS

Santa Ana Is Named as Headquarters for Inspector for 8 Counties

GEORGE GILROY TO BE IN CHARGE

Five Crews to Work Out Of This City—Money to Be Saved for State

Santa Ana will be headquarters in Southern California for the inspector who will direct the campaign against overloaded trucks, it was revealed by notices received today from Frank G. Snook, chief of the motor vehicle division.

The district will be in charge of Inspector George Gilroy, who arrives here yesterday, and will include the counties of Santa Barbara, Ventura, Los Angeles, Orange, San Diego, Imperial, Riverside and San Bernardino.

Snook has put five crews at work, each fully equipped with scales and other necessary equipment and instruction has been issued to traffic officers to stop every truck suspected of being overloaded, weigh it and arrest the driver, if the law is found to have been violated.

Snook says the truck weighing and checking crews will be maintained as a permanent organization for it is the belief of the motor vehicle organization that thousands of dollars can be saved to the taxpayers by a careful supervision of this means of transportation.

In order to facilitate the work of the crews, the state has been divided into five districts with headquarters in Ukiah, Sacramento, Fresno, San Jose and Santa Ana. The men will report daily to Chief Inspector C. K. Harder at Sacramento.

In weighing trucks the officers have instructions that no axle may carry a weight exceeding 18,000 pounds. The legal weight will be determined by measuring the width of both tires on the front wheels and multiplying the number of inches by 700. The procedure will be similar for the rear wheels.

An example Snook pointed out that it might be possible for a four-wheel vehicle to be under the 22,000 maximum in the law but still be improperly loaded as the maximum of 18,000 pounds on one axle might be exceeded.

In checking speeding cases of the crews, the state has been divided into five districts with headquarters in Ukiah, Sacramento, Fresno, San Jose and Santa Ana. The men will report daily to Chief Inspector C. K. Harder at Sacramento.

For trucks equipped with solid tires the limit for a gross weight of from 9000 to 12,000 pounds is 25 miles an hour; for a gross weight of 12,000 to 22,000 pounds, 15 miles an hour; and above 22,000 10 miles an hour. The latter speed applies of course only to vehicles with more than four wheels.

POPULATION OF ORANGE COUNTY SHOWS GROWTH

A slow but steady growth in population of Orange county is shown in figures released today by R. P. Mitchell, county superintendent of schools, bearing upon average daily attendance in grammar grades for the school year 1926-27 as compared with that of 1925-26. Reports for 1926-27 show the total daily average attendance at 14,822, and those for the preceding year at 13,927, registering a gain of 895 pupils. Increases were shown at Laguna Beach, Seal Beach, Bolsa, Buena Park, Fullerton, Costa Mesa, La Habra, Newport Beach, Olive, Commonwealth, San Joaquin, Savanna and Westminster. Santa Ana and Anaheim maintained their levels in attendance, showing neither gain nor loss. A decrease in attendance was reported at Los Angeles and San Juan Capistrano. The uniform increase reported in school districts located along the coast line, Superintendent Mitchell explained, is due to building activities and other development resulting from the construction of the new highway from Long Beach to Capistrano via Huntington Beach, Newport Beach and Laguna.

LA SALLE ROADSTER MAKES GOOD TIME

As a further engineering high-speed test of durability, a standard LaSalle roadster, with windshield and fenders removed, was put through a 951 mile continuous run at an average speed of 95.3 miles an hour in nine hours, 59 minutes and 39.4 seconds at the General Motors proving ground, Milford, Mich., Monday, June 20. The car had the 3 1/2-to-one gear ratio, a little higher compression, a camshaft slightly altered for high speed work, and had the muffler removed. Otherwise complete engine and chassis were standard in every respect. Ethyl gasoline was used in making the test.

During the entire run, no mechanical trouble developed in either engine or chassis, and the only stops made were for tire changes, water, oil and gasoline. At the end of the 252nd lap, after making 951.87 miles at an average of 95.3 miles per hour, the fracture of a small copper oil suction line terminated the test for the time being. The start of the test was made at 6:30:46.5 in the morning and ended at 4:30:25.9 in the afternoon. The speed of the fastest lap was 98.3 miles per hour and the last lap was made at 98.3 miles per hour.

MOTOR CAMPER
by Kamp-Ez Wilcox
Western Auto Supply Company

The variety in tents is unlimited. The size and style of the tent selected should be governed by the owners individual needs, as a tent that is suitable for one camping party may not fulfill the requirements of another.

The size will depend upon the number of people in the party, the length of the trip, weather conditions along the way, and whether most of the time will be spent on the road or in a permanent camp. The tent should be large enough to comfortably house the occupants, yet be light and compact enough to carry easily.

Among the many types of tents there are but two practical styles for the automobile camper, the palmetto or umbrella and the Leanto types. The standard auto or lean-to is a simple tent and very inexpensive. It consists of a single sloping roof with a three foot back wall, side walls and canopy. This canopy is usually thrown over the top of the car and tied to the wheels on the other side.

The umbrella tent is a more desirable style for the auto camper as its stands entirely independent of the car. No guy ropes are used and only one center pole, and it is very easy to set up and take down. The sewed-in floor keeps out dirt and adds warmth to the tent.

When unrolling the tent for the first time, take special note of how it is folded and always fold it up that way. If you have any doubt about setting it up, try it in the back yard before starting out on the trip to get used to handling it.

Extra metal stakes should be carried as the wood pegs are often broken, and the most experienced campers use the metal stake exclusively.

Carry the poles and stakes in a separate bag if possible, as it eliminates all danger of the tent being punctured by a sharp pole tip or tent stake. This bag may be strapped to the bumper if desired.

Hints On Car Care

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service

Shortly after we've had the new car some of us find it doesn't meet the requirements we have to demand of it. The fault is not so much in the car as it is in our selection of it. We have failed to put it to the test that would satisfy our personal needs, but have succumbed to the car's own advantages as developed and defined by its manufacturer.

That is why, in many cases, the new car doesn't seem to be hitting just right.

Trouble is we're lost in the ecstasy of the moment as we're driven about in the new product. Everything is new and spic and span. The motor is quiet, powerful and flexible. But that doesn't tell the story. What we want is a car that will do for us every day, in all the emergencies and peculiarities of traffic, what we will have in store for it.

Taking the car out on Sunday for a try-out doesn't give it the test it should meet, when we intend to use it mostly on week days. Or taking a long spin with it on a nice concrete road, without the bother of frequent cross roads, traffic lights, street cars and other pedestrian details, isn't the kind of a test that would approve the car for general everyday use.

It should be remembered that one automobile which is touted for speed, power and swift getaway, might be less desirable for our needs than another car which may be slower and less powerful, but which may save us the cost of many gallons of gasoline and oil in the long runs we expect to make with it.

An out of town salesman makes different demands on his car than does one who's confined to the big city for his daily calls.

A car built for comfort and economy may ride along pleasantly on the plains of the midwest. But it might not do as well as a less economical car in the hilly districts of Pennsylvania or Colorado.

This is true not only of different makes of automobiles, but of various types of cars. Traveling salesmen, for instance, find the coupe with large compartment in the rear is the type of car best suited for their needs. A salesman might buy a sedan, so as to include the entire family on pleasure trips, but cluttering up the back seat with his samples doesn't help the upholstery any.

Roadsters or phaetons look sleek with their tops down, but of what use are they when the locality is more suited to the enclosed car, due to the prevalence of bad weather?

It is all such a confusion of type and detail among the many cars in each price class, that a buyer should be satisfied only after personal trial of every make along these lines that would fill his own needs.

How to make such a test will be explained next week.

Bairam Festival Like U. S. Easter

TIRAVA, Albania, July 2.—The great Mohammedan festival, Bairam, which lasts three days, as observed in Albania is like Easter in the United States.

The people are supposed to appear in new clothes and a new hat is obligatory. The children get new "opaniques"—sheepskin shoes—and some of them are decked out in beautiful finery.

Everybody turns out in the morning of the first day of Bairam to pray in the public praying ground at dawn, then to circulate around town to see the children parading in their brand new clothes. When the children have passed in review the people go home to enjoy the first square meal in 30 days.

AMERICAN ENVOY TO GERMANY IS LAUDED

BERLIN, July 2.—Ambassador Jacob Gould Schurman has elicited generous praise from the German press for a recent utterance at Heidelberg university, where he spoke at the opening of the school of journalism.

"The really great newspaperman," said the ambassador, "like the truly great statesman, is one who keeps his head when everybody else loses his."

The editor of the Frankfurter Zeitung described this as "a particular happy formulation." Other editors express themselves in a similar vein.

The Heidelberg school is the ninth college of journalism to be established at German universities. Berlin, Leipzig, Hamburg, Cologne, Munich, Freiburg, Munster and Nuremberg are the other cities harboring schools of journalism.

TO HEAR ARGUMENTS ON DREDGING WORK

Written arguments for or against the proposed dredging of the west channel of Newport Harbor by the Title Insurance and Trust company, which has applied to the War department for authorization to do the work, will be received in triplicate by Major J. D. Arthur Jr., acting district engineer, on or before July 12, it was learned this morning.

A public hearing, at which oral statements may be made, has been set for July 12 in the council chamber of the city hall at Newport Beach. Navigation interests and officials of any county, city, or local association whose interests may be affected by the proposed work are being asked to be present to express their views. The work contemplated by the insurance company when completed will link the main land at Washington street to Parkinson's Island with a bridge of 50 foot span, 30 feet wide and providing a clearance of not less than 15 feet at mean high tide. It is also proposed to fill the 350 feet between the two points and to dredge a channel of sufficient depth for deep water vessels through the fill.

Russia Has 146 Million People

MOSCOW, July 2.—A population of 146,300,000 persons in all Russia has been announced as approximately correct, following classification of the results of the census conducted by the soviet union. The exact figures will not be available for several months, but the estimate given above is reported to be close to the final figure.

GOES FROM 'FRISCO TO N. Y. IN 7 DAYS

A modern saga of heroic adventure is written in the log which has just reached the Chrysler corporation of L. E. Miller's unprecedented feat in his Chrysler Imperial "30" phaeton—the first continuous transcontinental round trip ever completed in the United States.

It tells a thrilling story of mechanical performance and human skill and endurance rivalled only by the epoch-making flight of Colonel Lindbergh across the Atlantic.

With his traveling companion, Johnny Wieber, Miller left San Francisco at 10 a. m., Tuesday, May 31. One minute less than a week later, Tuesday, June 7, at 9:59 a. m. he drove his Chrysler into Los Angeles, seven days out of San Francisco via New York, a speedometer distance of 6720 miles.

In one week Miller had driven a distance as great as the average motorist covers in a whole season.

61 Star Cars bought by the New York Police Department

Solely on the strength of superior performance in open competition, the Star Car earned its rating in the world-famous organization of guardians of the law.

Up and down Broadway, Fifth Avenue, Riverside Drive—thirty, forty and fifty miles an hour—weaving in and out of traffic, swinging around corners, climbing hills—for four hours the official tester tried to shatter the claims made for Star Cars. It was one of the most gruelling tests in the history of the automobile, but the Star Car won the approval of the discriminating New York city officials.

Cromwell To Be At Track Classic

LOS ANGELES, July 1.—Coach Dean B. Cromwell will be at the National A. A. U. championships in Lincoln, Neb., Friday, Saturday and Sunday as trainer and mentor to University of Southern California athletes who are competing with the Los Angeles and Hollywood Athletic Club teams. Coach Cromwell has no connections with either club. Neither has Tommy Davis, assistant Trojan track coach who will remain in Los Angeles.

NEW INVENTION TO CUT AIRPLANE COST

LONDON, July 1.—Nine-tenths of the costs of airship construction are eliminated, it is claimed, with a new type of airship, based on revolutionary lighter-than-air principles, which is now being built in England by a small private company with the approval of experts of the British air ministry.

The development of a new design for the internal rigging, without loss of strength or rigidity, has made cheapness of construction possible. While it is not claimed that the ship now being built vies in size or weight lifting capacity with the two luxury ships now under construction for the British government, the proportionate initial cost is said to be astonishing.

The ship is the invention of three men. It will carry 20 men, including crew and navigator, in addition to its load of fuel, and is designed to be easily manageable in all weathers. Motive power to four air screws, is provided by four 75 horsepower Cirrus engines. The speed will be approximately 70 miles per hour.

3 NEW MODELS ARE ANNOUNCED BY NASH FIRM

Three entirely new series of cars, including 21 models on four different chassis lengths have been announced by the Nash Motors company, according to O. A. Haley, Nash distributor.

The new series will be known as the advanced six, the special six and the standard six, and despite a wide array of costly improvements these cars are also featuring new lower prices, the reductions ranging as high as $185. "A new radiator design, lower and more sweeping body lines and a brilliant array of new color combinations make these new models without question the most beautiful ever produced by Nash, and the cars fully justify reports which have been current for the past week that Nash would introduce an array of cars which would command nationwide praise," Hugh Haley said.

Important mechanical refinements and improvements are also announced at this time, keeping pace with the progress which has been made in increasing the beauty of the cars' appearance. Outstanding among these are the introduction of new springs of a secret alloy steel which is said to increase riding comfort in amazing degree.

"The new body lines are lower and more sweeping than ever before and the wheels are smaller, giving an additional appearance of lowness to the cars although interior roominess has not been sacrificed in the smallest degree."

"Matching the beauty of line is the new array of color combinations which Nash has adopted for these cars. Many striking new harmonies are used giving these cars a brilliance of appearance which is unequalled in their fields. "The size of the motor in the standard six has been increased, giving this car a degree of performance ability which, according to Nash officials, is entirely new to this price field."

"In addition to increasing the size of the motor, the size of the crankshaft has also been made larger to achieve greater motor smoothness. The crankshaft will, of course, continue to be of the seven bearing type which has made Nash smoothness famous."

"The new springs of secret alloy steel which Nash now introduces will be used on the standard six as well as on the special six and the advanced six for increased riding comfort. And another contribution in this respect is the use of shock absorbers at the front as standard equipment."

The standard six motor is now insulated from the frame at all points of contact with rubber, providing a quicker operation and saving of motor from road shocks."

About five million trees have to be cut each year to maintain telephone and telegraph lines.

Sun Spots Held Responsible For Fine French Wine

PARIS, July 1.—Sun spots and atmospheric disturbances apparently contribute to the making of fine vintage wines.

Circumstantial evidence to this effect has been offered to the Academy of Sciences by Dr. Arsene d'Arsonval, an eminent scientist, in behalf of Dr. Lakhovsky, a specialist in biology.

Every fine vintage year, from 1811—called the "Comet Year"—down to the present, was found to coincide with intense activity of three phenomena, sun spots, the aurora borealis and magnetic perturbations.

Wine is full of living organisms, in its early stages, and it is suggested that they "vibrate" or perform in some manner in sympathy with the atmospheric activity.

SPEED TRAPS UNLAWFUL IN NORTH STATE

The state of Washington has put into effect its new code governing all phases of motor vehicle operation. Maximum speed in the open country has now been placed at 40 miles per hour. Various other provisions are included in the new code, but none of these is particularly novel, except one which prohibits the setting of speed traps and makes evidence collected in this manner illegal.

"In spite of all that has been said and done, the speed trap still persists in various localities in this country," says the Automotive Daily News. "Speed trapping is not the general rural industry that it used to be. We doubt that justices of the peace today sit on their front porches with field glasses, take down numbers of out-state motor cars and then summon drivers by postal card, offering to accept a given fine and excuse appearance in court. That was done not many years ago, and the fact that such bold swindle methods have been pretty well eliminated is proof that the motoring community has learned to make its power felt to some extent."

"Ohio recently struck a powerful blow at this sort of mulcting of the motorist, when the supreme court declared unconstitutional a law permitting the judge and arresting officer to divide fines imposed for breaches of the liquor law."

"Speed trapping, division of fines by officers of the law and all other such practices, opening the door, as they obviously do, to all sorts of pettifoggery, have got to be ended everywhere in this motoring country."

STEEPLEJACK DIES IN 4 STORY FALL

PHILADELPHIA, July 1.—Two steeplejacks fought death and lost when they were placing a flagpole on the roof of a bank building at Broad and Boston streets. William Claverly swung from a rope while he drilled a hole in the wall. His mate, Harry Meeks, leaned over the roof edge to aid. When the rope holding Claverly broke Meeks caught the falling man by his shirt. The material parted and Claverly fell four stories to his death.

The victim was 32 years old and his home was in Yellow House, near Reading.

Meeks and Claverly started the job of placing the flagpole on the roof of the William Penn Title and Trust company at 11 o'clock. They had been working only a few minutes when it became evident that a hole would have to be driven in the wall.

Claverly fastened a light rope about his waist against the protest of Meeks, who suggested a heavier rope be used. With a smile, Claverly lowered himself over the edge and began drilling. Meeks was lying face down and leaning over the roof edge to assist in the drilling process. The rope broke and Meeks grasped quickly for his comrade.

For an instant both men hung perilously in a struggle against death and Meeks was almost dragged over the roof, when Claverly's shirt tore. His body turned twice in the four-story descent and hit a sign over the bank door.

HISTORIC EL PASO JAIL IS DESTROYED

EL PASO, Tex., July 1.—Once the scene of history making and tragedy, and for the past 10 years occupied by a garage, the old city jail of El Paso now is being demolished to make room for a more modern structure.

For many years the old red brick building was the home of the El Paso city police and fire departments, the city jail and recorder's office.

During the Mexican revolution of 1916, the carelessness of one of its prisoners brought death to 35 of his companions and himself. During a threatened epidemic of typhus fever prison officials were conducting a general fumigation. The entire building was being fumigated and prisoners bathed with alcohol. A thoughtless prisoner struck a match and in addition to the 36 fatalities, more than a score more were scarred or maimed for life in the fire which followed.

The exact date of the erection of the old building is not known.

PARK TOURISTS MISSING HALF TRIP THRILLS

The claim has recently been made by touring authorities that the vast majority of motor tourists seeking the Western national parks are missing half the thrills of the trip. It is pointed out that most of them return from their tours with vivid impressions of geysers only in thinking of Yellowstone, of big trees alone in connection with Sequoia park of Southern California, and of only the scenic exteriors of other of the playgrounds.

A leading reason for this is believed to be the fact that the average tourist tries to take in too much territory on his vacation trip and that he hurries from place to place without actually seeing the real beauty of any of them. The exceptional persons who visit the little-known wonders of the parks are comparatively very few indeed, it is said.

One of the authorities suggests, for instance, in a communication recently received by the Automobile Club of Southern California, that Yellowstone has a three-fold personality. Were there no geysers, the Yellowstone watershed alone, with its brilliant, multi-colored canyon, would be worth the national park, it is stated. Were there also no canyon, the scenic wilderness and its incomparable wealth of wild animal life would be worth the national park. The hot water manifestations are worth minute examination, but Dunraven Pass, Mount Washburn, the canyon at Tower Falls, Shoshone Lake, Sylvan Pass, the upper falls of the Yellowstone, are also decidedly worth while visiting.

How many motor tourists realize that the world famous incomparable Yosemite Valley is merely a cut seven miles long in a scenic masterpiece of eleven hundred square miles? This question is asked, and John Muir's description of the national park outside the valley is quoted in part as having "Innumerable lakes and waterfalls and smooth silky lawns; the noblest forests, the loftiest granite domes, the deepest ice sculptured canyons, and snowy mountains soaring into the sky twelve and thirteen thousand feet. . . . The huge, foaming, leaping waterfalls of the Grand Canyon of the Toulumne, beautiful Rogers Lake, Nevada Falls, Teahaya Lake and Mirror Lake are some of the Yosemite wonders seen by comparatively few visitors."

Sequoia and General Grant National parks not only include the largest and oldest living things in the big trees, but also offer alpine meadows, the highest mountain peaks, aged junipers and big trees of other kinds, and in Greater Sequoia may be seen the home stream of the Golden Trout, found nowhere else in the world except where transplanted, and also the celebrated Kings River canyon, and hundreds of wondrous sights in the snowy mountain peaks.

Woman, 95, Plays On Mouth Organ

DROITWICH, Eng., July 1.—Claiming to be the oldest woman mouth organ player, Mrs. Martha Powls, of Droitwich, England, recently celebrated her 95th birthday by giving an informal concert on her harmonica. She can play almost anything from jazz to grand opera, and insists that her daughter place the instrument under her pillow each night, so that if she so desires she can play herself to sleep.

reputation*

We can recite to you the advantages of Chrysler '70's speed of 70 miles plus, its astonishing pickup of 5 to 25 miles in 7 1/2 seconds.

We can tell you what its scientifically balanced 7-bearing crankshaft and impulse neutralizer contribute toward its greater smoothness; how much more comfortably you ride because of its low chassis design, its unique spring suspension and its shock absorbers; how much more easily it handles because of its pivotal steering gear; and how much safer you feel because of its four-wheel hydraulic brakes.

But the real way for you actually to discover these things for yourself is to learn them today in an extended test over all sorts of roads, through all sorts of traffic, with you doing the driving.

We gladly accord you the opportunity for such a demonstration.

Billy
Evans
Says

New York won the pennant in the American league in 1926. The club is at least 25 per cent stronger this year. Draw your own conclusions.

There are many reasons why the Yanks present an even more imposing front than last season. Here are a few of them:

Tony Lazzeri and Mark Koenig, the two rookie infielders of last season, are much improved. Koenig has lost his erratic ways. Lazzeri is the most valuable second baseman in the American league.

The reserve strength of the club is much better. Last season the Yanks had a capable outfield substitute in Ben Paschal, a right-handed batter. This year New York has a left-handed hitter equally as good in Cedric Durst, who also can play a pretty good game at first. Morehart is a fine utility infielder.

John Grabowski has bolstered up the catching and Willy Moore, a 30-year-old rookie, has aided the pitching. Perhaps no one youngster, if you can call Moore such, has made a better first year impression than Moore.

In these days of cut-and-slash baseball, a good relief pitcher is an absolute necessity. Willy Moore is filling that role for the Yanks most capably.

To the outsider, it is absolutely impossible to realize what an important part a master relief pitcher plays in the success of a championship ball club.

When Stanley Harris was winning pennants for Washington in 1924-25, big Fred Marberry was his ace in the hole. A glutton for work, Marberry, at a moment's notice, could step into almost any breach and hold the margin that his club might have.

With a pitcher of the Marberry type, used almost entirely in relief roles, it is possible for a manager to keep his regular pitching staff fairly intact.

Proper handling of a pitching staff can make a ball club. Nothing will throw a staff out of gear more quickly than the use of regular pitchers out of turn in rescue roles. Pitchers will tell you that a few innings under high pressure takes more out of the arm than many regular games.

Marberry enabled Harris to nurse his none too strong staff and get every ounce of work out of his veterans because they got their required rest of four days.

This year, the great value of a high class relief pitcher has been proved in the varying fortunes that have come the way of the Detroit Tigers.

For several seasons, the veteran right hander, George Daus, has been Detroit's Marberry. Good speed, a great curve ball and control, made Daus the ideal pitcher to rush into the game for a few innings as pinch pitcher.

Last season he was in 34 games, practically all of them as relief pitcher. He isn't credited with working a complete game, yet his record shows 11 victories and seven defeats, all of them scored under high tension.

I also feel that I am conservative when I say that he saved perhaps 10 other games for which he received no official credit. It is easy to imagine what the loss of so valuable a pitcher would mean to a club.

This year, George Moriarty, making his debut as manager of the Tigers, has been without his best rescue weapon, George Daus, who has been ill all year.

I can recall at least a half dozen games that Detroit would have won this year had George Daus been on the bench waiting for the word to do the hero stuff.

THREE YOUNGSTERS NET STARS OF FUTURE

NEW YORK, July 2.—Give a look at junior lawn tennis.

Right now the younger players are commanding nation-wide attention moaning in on the old line tournaments—all largely because of the naming of Johnny Dugg as one of the potential stars on the defending U. S. Davis cup brigade.

This dashing scion of the famous Sutton family takes to tennis as the proverbial duckling does to water. He is the nephew of Mrs. May Sutton Bundy (May was the first American to win a championship at Wimbledon) and the son of the former Violet Sutton, so you see he has quite a racquet pedigree.

Many Achieve Distinction

The nomination of Dugg is not as unusual as some would have it appear. A lot of juniors have developed in this country have achieved distinction in an international way.

Records are unimpeachable things. Take the junior champions, beginning with Charles S. Garland in 1917, then for three years Vincent Richards, next Arnold W. Jones, George M. Lott, Jr., for two years and then Cranston Holman for two years.

Garland and Richards actually played on Davis cup teams. Lott, Holman and Dugg have been honored by nominations. From the standpoint of the development of the game all of the effort that has been expended on the juniors has amply justified itself.

Game Faulty In Spots

In a way Lott is a shining example of what may be accomplished despite the fact that it is generally agreed his game is faulty in spots. Still Lott emerges from the junior ranks and in the space of three years has carved his name on the record as having defeated Big Bill Tilden in the final of a major tournament.

ANAHEIM BEATEN BY GROVERS IN 10 INNING THRILLER, 3-2; FULLERTON OUTSWATS OLIVE

The Orange County Night league was still an open race today following the unexpected defeat of the Anaheim Colonists, 5 to 4, at the hands of the Garden Grove Chippers at Anaheim last night.

After this unsteady start, Jensen and McCoy settled down to a serious pitching duel in which home runs were virtually eliminated. Lutz was the first hitter in the seventh and he rammed the McCoy's first pitches between left and center field for a clean circuit smash.

The Pirates were a strong club when they started the season but the Cardinals were also strong and they're both good yet.

On the last hard drive, however, the Cardinals probably will be better balanced for a winning fight.

JULY 4 LEGEND LUTZ'S HOMER LOOKS GOOD IN WINS FOR S. A. BASEBALL RACE ALL-STARS, 3-2

BY HENRY L. FARRELL (United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, July 2.—As the major league ball clubs tear or crawl to the July 4 mark, the old legend is recalled—"Look at the standings on the Fourth and make your bets."

The theory is that after half of the season, or a little less, according to actual mathematics—the early season phenoms should be shaking into the lower positions and the teams with the real class should be up on top.

Approaching the Fourth this year, the hunch looks proper.

The New York Yanks are out with a lead of 10 games, with everything going well. The champion St. Louis Cardinals and the Pittsburgh Pirates are neck and neck in the National league.

Despite the moans of Miller Huggins that breakers may be ahead on his Yankees, it does not look possible for them to lose unless the breakers are record breakers. He is said to be concerned over how his pitchers will hold out in the stretch and how serious the weakness at third base, where Joe Dugan hasn't been doing so well, may become.

But it is a two to one bet that any other major league club with Ruth, Gehrig, Combs, Lazzeri and Meusel, two slugging catchers and some fair pitchers, would not be looking for trouble.

Huggins may be recalling the slump his team took last year in late season when it was almost overtaken by the Cleveland Indians. Washington isn't too far behind to do some speeding and even a 10-game lead can fade away rapidly, he knows.

If the Senators had had their full strength from the start of the season, they probably would be right up behind the Yanks.

The Athletics seem to be clear out of it and the Chicago White Sox suffered from a slump started when the Yanks gave them a drubbing in the last series.

Unless the Giants start soon to play some baseball, the National league race will be St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Chicago. And it doesn't look as if the Giants were going to start.

The experts still are shouting that the clubs have no business in third place but they're on the trail and they've had some chances to drop out.

The Pirates were a strong club when they started the season but the Cardinals were also strong and they're both good yet.

On the last hard drive, however, the Cardinals probably will be better balanced for a winning fight.

Supplies Meet Montebello At H. B. On Sunday

Montebello, one of the most highly regarded clubs in the Orange Belt league, will play Joe Rodgers' Republic Supply company team at Huntington Beach tomorrow afternoon.

The Supplies remain undefeated in this fast semi-pro circuit, being tied with La Habra for first place.

RANEY'S STICK WORK FEATURES CITY HALL WIN

Breaking into the Twilight league racket with a resounding boom, Neal ("Flash") Raney, perhaps the greatest all around athlete ever developed at Santa Ana high school, clubbed the Courthouse into submission at Lincoln park yesterday, his hitting being largely instrumental in the 6 to 5 victory of the City Hall aggregation with which Raney thus made his impressive debut.

Until this defeat the Parliamentarians were tied with the Post Office for second place and still were things untoward should happen to the unbeaten United Presbyterian Hill-Climbers.

Raney was the big noise of the game, his long homer over Lackaye in the first inning giving the City Hall two scores and his tremendous clout over Sawyer with the bases drunk in the ninth produced the tying and winning runs. This drive also was good for the circuit.

There will be no game in the Twilight race next Monday, play being resumed Tuesday, July 5, when the Lathrop Playgrounds face Smart and Final.

AMERICAN GIRL SUCCESSFUL IN BRITISH FINALS

Senorita Defeated Easily; Henri Cochet Wins from Borotra in Men's Meet

WIMBLEDON, England, July 2.—Henri Cochet of France and Helen Wills today became the singles champions of the All-England Tennis club tournament here. Cochet defeated Jean Borotra in five sets, 4-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 and 7-5.

Miss Wills, of California defeated Elia De Alvarez in straight sets, 6-2, 6-4.

Miss Wills served first, winning her game 4-2, and broke through Senorita De Alvarez's first service to win 4-2. Miss Wills won her second service 4-1 and lost to the Spanish girl's service, 2-4. The fifth game went to deuce, Miss Wills winning 5-3. The sixth was deuced, the Spanish girl serving and winning 5-3. Miss Wills took the next two, 4-1, 4-1.

Miss Wills lost only one set during the entire course of the singles tournament. Miss Gwen Sterli, whom Helen beat 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, in the first round, was the woman who succeeded in scoring six games on the Californian, who plainly was ill at the time.

Senorita De Alvarez made a bid for Miss Wills' service in the second game of the second set, carrying the California girl to deuce before Miss Wills was able to win, 6-7. As in the first set, Miss Wills broke through the Spanish girl's service to take the second game. The point score was 4-2.

Miss Wills' own service was lost in the third game, which Senorita De Alvarez won, 3-5. She won the fourth, 2-4, and the set stood two all. Miss Wills' third service passed quickly, the American girl winning, 4-2, but Senorita De Alvarez allowed her opponent only one point in the next game, bringing the set score to three all.

The seventh game was deuced, Miss Wills losing her service, 6-8, and Senorita De Alvarez led by one game.

That was her lost chance. The next three games went to Miss Wills 4-1, 4-0, 4-2.

Miss Wills was the first American ever to win the singles championship here. Miss Kitty McKane Godfree won it last year and in the recent years before that, the women's play had been dominated by Suzanne Lenglen, now a professional.

Cooper Welcomed Back To Southland

LOS ANGELES, July 2.—"Light-horse" Harry Cooper, runner up in the recent National Open at Oakmont, Pa., is strong on golf, but shuns the role of a "parlor athlete."

Last night he was summoned to the ring at Hollywood Legion stadium and introduced. There were numerous calls for a speech, all of which he shunned with a modest bow and returned to his seat.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE:

Around the World

By Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1923-26

Five ships, with 270 men sailed toward Spain's sunset on Sept. 20, 1519. Their fate seemed certain death, they were rash, this was foolishness! Thus the people spoke, for this was the expedition of Ferdinand Magellan, setting out to prove the earth was round.

By NEA, through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1923-26.

Across the Pacific for weeks, the brave crews fought and sailed. Magellan was killed in a battle with Filipinos.

Lieutenant Sebastian Del Cano determined to carry on. Ever westward his ships went, until but one was left. The Cape of Good Hope, Africa's tip, was a blessed reward. After three years of sailing, the expedition had won. Now there could be no doubt the world was round.

CHEMISTRY PROFESSOR REAL SHERLOCK HOLMES DETECTIVE

Edward Oscar Heinrich

Pulls Net Around D'Autremont Brothers with 4 Slender Clews

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—A quiet, studious instructor in chemistry at the University of California—the last person in the world one would have picked as a relentless man hunter—stands revealed today as the super-detective whose work brought about the arrest and imprisonment of the three D'Autremont brothers, who bombed a mail train and killed four men in the Oregon mountains in the fall of 1923.

The man is Prof. Edward Oscar Heinrich. In real life he did work that rivals the fabled exploits of Sherlock Holmes. Hugh, Ray and Roy D'Autremont fled into the Siskiyou mountains after blowing up a mail car and killing four men. No man had seen them. Behind them they left only four very slender clews—a revolver, a knapsack containing overalls, a pair of greasy overalls and a magneto which had set off the explosive that wrecked the mail car.

Told Whole Story
Inspectors of the postal service took these clews to Professor Heinrich. He examined them minutely—and then, in true Sherlock Holmes fashion, announced: "That one of the killings was brown haired, left-handed, about 25 years old, 5 feet 8 inches tall, heavy set, neat in his personal habits and a former worker in the lumber camps of Oregon and Washington."

The overalls, soaked in creosote, had been worn to throw bloodhounds off the track. In the knapsack that contained them were found several grains of rock salt. Professor Heinrich pointed out that this indicated the bandits had used a canteen's cabin as a rendezvous. The inspectors looked for such a building near the scene of the crime.

They found one, five miles away. In the cabin was a towel. Professor Heinrich examined this under the microscope. He found short bits of hair clinging to it. The men had used it after shaving.

Examination of the hair proved that three men had taken part in the holdup.

What Overalls Told
He had gained his knowledge of the physical aspects of one of the robbers from the size and cut of the overalls; pitch from pine trees had been sticking to part of the garment and this had told him the man had been a lumberman. Other marks on the overalls had shown that the man stood habitually with his right side toward the trees, welding his axe in a left-handed manner. Microscopic examination of bits of hair clinging to the overalls, compared with a table of hair conditions at different ages, indicated his age.

Then, deep in an overall pocket, was found a crumpled, faded bit of paper. Professor Heinrich put this under the microscope and found it was a postal money order receipt. He was able to make out its number and postal inspectors, tracing it, found it had been issued to one of the D'Autremonts.

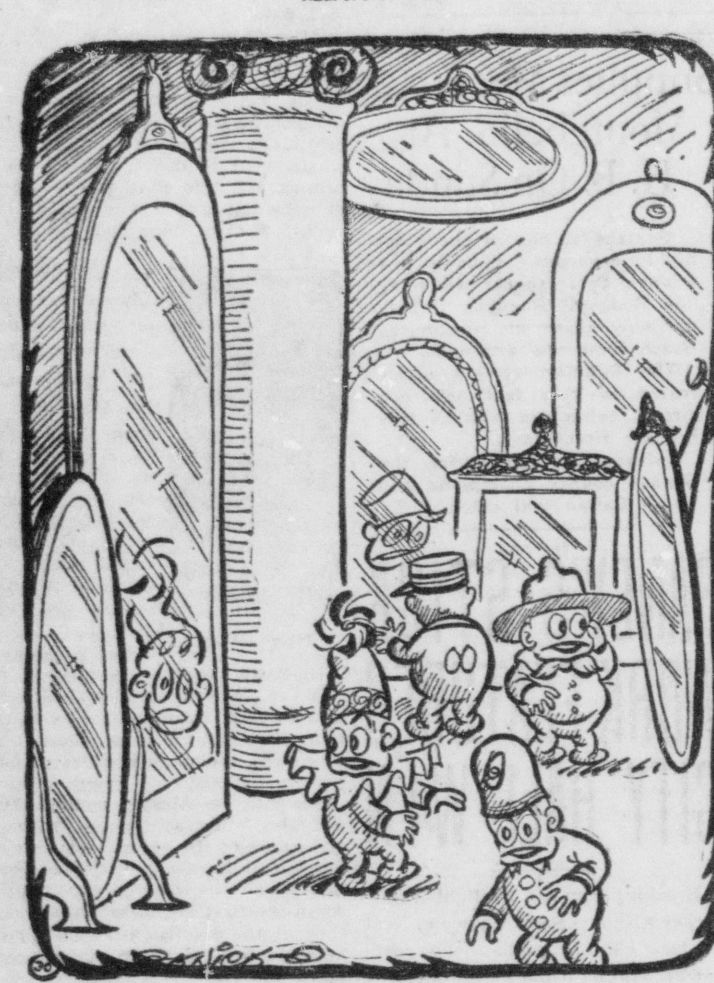

With all of these facts at their disposal, the postal inspectors had something to go on in their hunt. They promptly began to go through the north woods lumber camps, questioning foremen and gang bosses.

Presently their search was rewarded. Near Eugene, Ore., they found a camp from which three brothers, known as radicals, had disappeared shortly before the holdup. These three were the brothers D'Autremont. The inspectors soon were in possession of photographs and complete descriptions of them.

But still the hunt had only started. Although the inspectors were fairly sure of the identity of the slayers, they had not the faintest idea of where they were.

Thorough Work
Now comes a revelation of the thoroughness with which postal inspectors run down a fugitive. Two and a half million circulars containing photographs and complete descriptions of the fugitives were printed and mailed through the world. Every post office in the United States displayed these posters. Dentists were sent charts describing the fillings in the D'Autremonts' teeth; optometrists were sent descriptions of their glasses; every public library in the country received a circular and a warning that the men often

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Tinymites left the scenic stand to run and listen to a band that played out in a parkway, which was very quickly found. The music filled them all with pep and soon the bunch began to step. The princess had to laugh at them to see them prance around.

Then Clowmy, in a manner trim, asked her to have a dance with him. She thought that this was very kind and joined right in the fun. The others stood and watched a while. Poor Clowmy Clowmy made them smile, but still they gave him credit for the thoughtful thing he'd done.

Then Scouty also took his turn and found that he had heaps to learn. The little princess swung him 'round until he almost flopped. They did the two-step and the dip, and each time Scouty thought he'd slip. However, he improved a lot—and then the music stopped.

"You're next," the fair young princess cried, and Copy rushed up to her side. Then Carpy also had a dance and got along real good. As Clowmy watched them galli prance, he said, "Well, maybe I can't dance, but anyhow, I tried my luck, and did the best I could."

And then they left the wondrous band and walked up to a mirror stand. "Before we enter here, I wish to warn you of the place. 'Twill make you look real thin or fat," the princess said. "But don't let that upset 'cause that's what it's for—to change about your face."

Then, in they went and gee, what fun. The queerest place beneath the sun. The mirrors changed the bunch in looks and made them laugh aloud. Though Clowmy really was real small, the mirrors made him look quite tall. Said he, "If I were just like that I'd really feel real proud."

(The Tinymites celebrate the Fourth of July in the next story).

BEAUTY CHATS

THE OUTDOORS GIRL

The ordinary healthy girl today simply has no time to bother with elaborate formulas and ceremonies for keeping off sunburn. Yet she hates to burn too much and she knows how ugly a deep red brown V is when a round neck dress shows white shoulders, or how odd a darkly sunburned face looks above a low evening dress. So the only thing for her to do is to learn quick ways of preventing as much burn as possible.

Very well—if you can, have all your summer dresses cut to the same neckline. This does away with patches of yellow and light and dark brown overlapping on your skin and making your chest and shoulders look very odd when you are in front. There are stand-up collars in back. It will save you a black or a blistered neck behind, and look smart as well.

Let your summer dresses be cool and sheer as you want, but for day-time wear colors, colors will not let sunburn through and white will. Adopt wide brim hats—good for your eyes, and they'll keep the sun from face and neck.

Finally, rub on some vanishing cream before you go out for some house of strong sun, and powder thickly. Carry powder and use it now and then, it does help prevent sunburn.

Every night, rub the face with a cooling bleaching cucumber lotion just at bedtime. And when you can, without discomfort, wear gloves—that is, for gardening, for driving, on the street, with a coat or long sleeve dress. Brown hands on white arms are ugly.

Miss A. G.—Very acid fruits, if taken in any quantity with a meal in which there is starch, will create another acid in the stomach that will upset the digestion. If you are intending to clear the system through fruit juices, such as that of orange juice, or orange and lemon together, you should get as much as a tumblerful, and that cannot be taken with a meal in which there is starch. A small amount of cooked fruit can be assimilated with starchy foods, and you may not feel any bad effects from a course of raw fruit taken before a dinner in which there is a small amount of starch.

If you are seriously dieting with fruit juices, or fruit and milk, just keep them apart long enough to have either assimilated before the tumblerful of fruit juice is taken. You should take fruit juice at half hour before breakfast, and then you are not restricted in your choice of any food. Never take milk and acid fruit at the same time. If you use cream at night as a massage, you need not close the pores afterward with the cold water, but it should not be omitted then in the morning.

ON RECEIVING A SOLID SILVER TEE SET

Good friend, when fad and fashion rage
To mark the splendor of our age,
And silversmith and goldsmith vie
To capture man's admiring eye
With trinkets of ornate design,
I take this latest gift of thine
And hold it up that all may see
The dude that thou hast made of me.

From thee a silver tee set comes
To bear the pressure of my thumbs;
To rest upon the grassy ground,
Envied by all who stand around;
A tee set, with a glistening chain,
Of which no single link is plain,
Holding a plate, on which I see
"Graved deep, the letters: E. A. G."

Said I to her I love so well
To whom my every thought I tell:
"What think you Hawkins gave to me?"
She could not guess what it could be.
"A gift you've wanted long," said I,
"A gift I can't afford to buy,
A solid silver tee set, sweet,
Initialed, boxed, and all complete."

'Twere shame to trick her, I confess,
To raise her hope of happiness,
But truth I told, nor could she tell
That golfing tee sets jewelers sell.
And when, within her hand I placed,
Those silver golf tees, carved and chased,
A sneer across her features sped:
Could looks destroy, we'd both be dead!

Writer Plans Drink Recipes For Hostesses

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer

Whether it be on the porch, in the garden, at the bridge table or with a "dish of gossip" and an intimate friend, a cool drink served as if by magic is the aim of the summer hostess.

When preparing drinks for expected guests the fruit juices and syrup can be mixed hours before needed and kept on ice. The tray and glasses and cookies or sandwiches can be arranged so that the last-minute effort creates little stir of preparation.

But when the chance guest drops in and a quick and apparently effortless bit of refreshment is wanted the hostess who is totally without preparation is "out of luck."

Foresight
To this end the foresighted housewife keeps a few simple experiences in her refrigerator. A jar of sugar syrup, a bottle of chocolate syrup and one or two varieties of fruit juices make it possible to concoct delicious beverages with regular soda-fountain speed.

Another secret in making quick drink is in using finely chopped ice. Less water is used when making the beverage because the fine ice melts and dilutes the drink as it chills it.

Sugar Syrup
To make sugar syrup put 1 cup of sugar and 1-2 cup water into a smooth sauce pan. Put over medium heat and bring to the boiling point. Cover and let boil five minutes. One to two tablespoons of this syrup to a glass will make the average drink sweet enough. Two tablespoon grated lemon rind can be cooked with the syrup. Strain syrup before bottling. This lemon syrup is particularly good with iced tea or a fruit punch.

Concentrated Lemon Syrup
Which can be diluted and used with iced tea for tea punch or charged water for lemon fizz is made as follows:
Three cups sugar, 3 cups water, 3 cups lemon juice, grated rind. Combine sugar, water and grated rind of lemons. Bring to the boiling point. Cover and boil fifteen minutes. Add lemon juice, cover and bring to the boiling point. Simmer ten minutes. Strain into sterilized jars and seal.

Any fruit juice can be used. The juice may be obtained by crushing fresh fruit and straining the juice through cheesecloth.

Chocolate syrup can be added to milk to make a nourishing drink. The person who would diet to gain weight may prefer a milk drink to a fruit beverage. The fruit drink has a tonic effect and tends to whet a faded appetite so the two-thin person may find the fruit drink a boon about half an hour before meal time.

Chocolate Syrup
Three squares bitter chocolate, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1-2 cup boiling water, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Grate chocolate and mix thoroughly with sugar. Add boiling water, stirring constantly. Cook five minutes, stirring to prevent burning. Cool and add vanilla. Pour into sterilized jar until wanted to use. Two tablespoons of syrup is added to 3-4 cup of chilled milk for iced chocolate.

Parents Asked To Be Just To Their Children

EDITOR'S NOTE—Punishment of children is dealt with by Olive Roberts Barton in this article, the eighth of a series of fifteen on THE TEN COMMANDMENTS OF CHILD TRAINING, which is appearing exclusively in the Register.

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Thou shalt be just toward your child at all times—particularly in the matter of punishment."

If a boy or girl has not learned the habit of obedience by the time he is five, he never will learn it altogether.

A child is never too young to learn to obey. It is a mistake to think that tiny children cannot recognize authority.

Must is must and must not is must not. Tone and manner soon do their work—a baby can tell by the very expression of a mother's face if she means what she says.

Part of it may be instinct, but it is amazing how early in life little brains begin to respond to outside suggestion and act on it.

Lay Down the Law
It is absolutely fundamental that children be taught that the parent's word is law and that the law must be obeyed. It is all the more necessary that home laws be reasonable, and not too many in number. If a law is a law and not merely a weak-kneed suggestion, it is up to the parent to see that it is obeyed to the letter.

We will assume that parents are persons whose intellectual capacity is never influenced by "emotional conflicts." The one who punishes through rage, chagrin, or vindictiveness, is certainly not the person to teach discipline. Who is he to try to instill self-control in another when he cannot control himself?

Do not be too quick to class inductive and the exercising of a child's personality as disobedience. Do not be too hasty of judgment if his curiosity leads him to destroy. Motive of a child's misconduct, and motives only, should be considered if punishment is intended, just as motive is the basis of punishment for crime in a court of law.

Emphasize Honesty
Honesty should be stressed very strongly. Teach a child to be absolutely truthful. More children learn to be liars through fear of an irate parent when they have gotten into trouble than for any other reason on earth. Think of it! If a child was absolutely certain of justice and understanding, would it be so?

That is why I recommend only a few absolutely necessary and fundamental laws to begin with, and a thorough investigation if laws are broken. Hastily jumping at conclusions is fatal.

I also recommend a second chance for a serious offense. But only a second. A talking to may prevent a recurrence. Children, unless abnormal, are usually quite amenable to reason. After that, punishment swift and sure!

Aileen Pringle, the screen star who shines as brilliantly before the stove as before the camera. In the kitchen or on the movie lot, she is equally accomplished, equally creative, original.

Her public admires her histrionic capabilities no more than her friends admire and enjoy the fruits of her culinary capabilities. And to them Aileen's Russian salad, made by a simple receipt of her own composition, is the greatest favorite. Comme ça:

One small, red, finely-shredded cabbage; 1 pint malt vinegar; 2 tablespoons salad oil; 1 tablespoon salt and 1 teaspoon cayenne pepper.

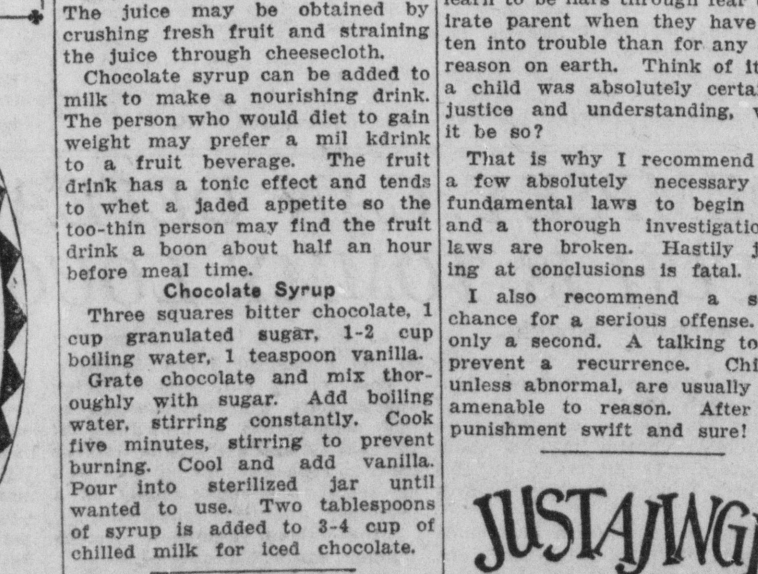

Mix all the ingredients and let stand for two days. Then serve, cold, on a lettuce leaf.

THE WOMAN'S DAY

Lindbergh cretonne for the summer home and Lindbergh lunch-spoons with "the dearest" little favors of airplane nut cups, are the very latest. No really tasty home-maker will neglect to festoon her home with cretonne and chintz striped with the national colors and plaided with a photo of Lucky Lindy. And the rainbow lunches are mostly passe, my dear. If you don't have molded fish in airplane shapes, you just don't know your pistachio nuts at all! Oh, dear, Lucky is a nice kid and all that—and I suppose he's even more fed up than am I on the great American plan of pattern, stereotyped, standardized peas-in-a-pod enthusiasms, but just the same I am so fed up—not so much with our monotonous enthusiasms as with our monotonous form of expression with airplane lunch-spoons and cretonnes!

HINTS ON ETIQUET

1. When are wedding gifts sent and to whom?
2. Should a bride always display her wedding presents? Does a well-bred woman leave the cards attached so guests may see what friends gave?
3. Can a gift ever be exchanged without a breach of etiquette?

THE ANSWERS

1. A fortnight before the wedding. To the bride.
2. It is optional but many well-bred brides do so. The very punctilious do not but it is not a hard and fast rule.
3. Yes, if duplicates are given.

NEW YORKER BUYS W. J. BRYAN HOME

MIAMI, Fla., July 2.—The William Jennings Bryan home in Coconut Grove, where the common planter's part in the Scopes exhibition trial has been sold to Leo Hendrik Baekeland, of New York, eminent chemist and inventor of bakelite.

Dr. Baekeland, a past president of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, and professor of chemistry in several eastern universities, has announced he will make the estate his winter home. It is understood the purchase price was $90,000.

The property, located on the 1 Graham highway, has a frontage of 25 feet and extends 1200 feet to B. C. Wayne bay. A large house and swimming pool built of coral rock and screened by coconut trees and profusion of tropical foliage.

Known as Marymont, the home of his wife, the property was purchased for thousands of persons during the Bryan residence. The couple lived there for about a year prior to Mr. Bryan's departure for Dayton, Tenn., and the trial John Thomas Scopes in 1925. Mr. Bryan died in Dayton shortly after the trial was concluded.

Originally a part of the La Huntington estate, Mr. Bryan's purchase had a frontage of 150 feet on the highway. One of the first things he made was to deed to the Methodist Episcopal church a lot for the northeast portion, fronting 10 feet of the highway and having a depth of 300 feet. On the property now is located the Bryan memorial church.

Mrs. Bryan, who resided at Marymont until about a year ago, makes her home with a son, William Jennings Bryan Jr., in Hollywood, Calif.

400 PRESENT AT RECEPTION FOR LAGUNA RECTOR

LAGUNA BEACH, July 2.—The Rev. and Mrs. Percy Wise Clarkson and Miss Emma Clarkson, their daughter, were given a reception at the Little Art theater last night by the residents of this community. The Rev. Mr. Clarkson recently accepted a call to St. Francis-by-the-Sea.

Approximately 400 people crowded the auditorium of the theater. Leaders of the community were in the receiving line. Musical numbers by nationally known artists who are summering at Laguna Beach made up the entertainment program.

Those who were in the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Champion, representing the chamber of commerce; Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Henshaw, representatives of the Realty board; Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. DeHanna, representing the Merchants' association; Mr. and Mrs. William A. Griffith, representatives of the Art association; Mr. and Mrs. George E. Thompson, representatives of the Library Building association, and Charles H. Kaichen, representing the Community club.

The musical numbers were given by Madame Beatrice Bowman, vocalist, Miss Josephine Hill, violinist, and Mrs. Frederick J. Schwanovsky, pianist.

Responding to the words spoken by the community leaders, the Rev. Mr. Clarkson told of contemplated improvements to the church and to the rectory to cost several thousand dollars, to be expended over a period of years, which will add to the beauty of the already beautiful church.

The Rev. Mr. Clarkson pledged his support to all civic organizations.

The Rev. Mr. Clarkson assumes his rectory here after having been rector at the Orange parish for five years, during which time he has been a missionary to Laguna Beach and other points. Preceding his assignment to the Orange parish, the Rev. Mr. Clarkson served for 25 years in New Zealand.

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON, July 1.—It is an excellent bet that Wayne B. Wheeler, the prolific boss of the Anti-Saloon league, has already compiled a series of statements to shoot when Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, the retiring "dry czar" begins to tell what he considers the truth about prohibition.

Beyond doubt, Andrews will write the story of his career as chief enforcer and incidentally outline his conclusions.

No one can predict just what Andrews will tell the world, but the Anti-Saloon league fears the worst. It can hardly feel any other way, in view of its violent enmity toward Andrews and its conviction that he was never at heart a supporter of the Volstead act.

The other day in New York newspaper man asked Andrews if he thought that prohibition could be enforced. Andrews, it is reported, did not reply. He still holds office, despite the league's desire to push him out before his resignation takes effect on August 1.

Out of office Andrews probably will be as sincere as he has been on the job, but he is not likely to be tongue-tied. He will be in a position to make startling disclosures, and within the limits of decency and a sense of honor, he may be expected to do so.

Despite Anti-Saloon league misgivings, it is quite possible that Andrews will suggest a constructive program for enforcement.

RUMORS are revived that Governor General Leonard Wood, returning from Mexico, are going plain and Ambassador Sheffield, returning from Mexico, are going to resign.

Sheffield's resignation is the more probable. He has made a hit with the representatives of foreign oil interests in Mexico City, but apparently is unpopular with the Mexican government and Mexican people, who credit him with causing much of last year's unpleasantness between our republic and theirs. Inasmuch as this unpleasantness has largely given way to a certain surface appearance of amity, it is not unreasonable to suppose that Sheffield may be replaced by a man more acceptable to the Mexicans.

It must be admitted that Gen. Wood is no national idol to the Filipino people, but the Philippines are a possession and not a supposedly friendly and neighboring foreign state. If the administration is in accord with Wood and his work it presumably will try to keep him in Manila.

Rumors of Secretary of State Kellogg's pending resignation have died down and their quiescence is much more likely to attend such an event than anything else. The country seems heartily to approve of our Chinese policy, the Nicaraguan war has been ended and if there were to develop some flourish of good will between Mexico and the United States—perhaps a treaty or formal agreement of some sort—the setting would be ideal for the elderly and none too healthy Mr. Kellogg to retire amid a fanfare of vociferous praise.

$15,000 Paid For 6-Acre Grove In Yorba Linda Area

YORBA LINDA, July 2.—W. E. Whetstone has sold his six-acre lemon ranch on Eureka avenue to Lawrence Kramer. The consideration was $15,000. Mr. Whetstone has not completed plans for the future. Kramer is said to represent an oil company.

NO ACTION TAKEN FOR FLOOD WORK

CYPRESS, July 2.—Little hope exists for flood control protection in the Buena Park-Cypress area, it was declared today following a meeting of the flood district directors and representatives of the chambers of commerce of the two communities involved at Cypress.

No agreement could be reached at the meeting because local chamber officials and the directors of the storm water control district opposed an expensive protection plan, while Buena Park proponents of a protection plan would not hear plans calculated to give only partial protection, according to those who attended the meeting.

The district would be put to considerable expense to open up the natural drains in the district. It was declared that some definite flood control action is imperative to protect the lives and property of residents in the section, was the contention of the proponents of the plan.

The proponents are now engaged in stirring public sentiment in favor of the flood control idea to such an extent that the district will see fit to order such work done.

Those present at the meeting were H. E. Warren, John Sidel and Frank Golden, of the Buena Park Chamber of Commerce; Emanuel Bastady and Robert Bacon, of Buena Park, and George Miller, of Cypress, members of the flood control district board.

S. A. PASTOR WILL PREACH IN ORANGE

ORANGE, July 2.—The First Baptist church congregation will be without the services of a pastor after next Sunday. J. G. Stillion, of Monrovia, who has been pastor for the past year and a half, is going to northern California. The Rev. Earl Edwards, of Santa Ana, will conduct the Sunday morning services. The Rev. Mr. Edwards recently returned from a tour of the world. The Rev. Mr. Edwards has accepted the call of the Anaheim Baptist church next week.

The Orange church has not completed arrangements for a permanent pastor.

Tom D. Bird was in San Diego Thursday.

Sam Stuart of the Shamrock cafe returned recently from a six weeks' trip to the east.

L. W. Dunham of San Gabriel, was in Capistrano on business Thursday.

The old mission was the setting for some movie scenes, filmed Wednesday by First National.

Mr. and Mrs. Esmond Harper and children, of Huntington Park, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. Malcolm Thursday. The Harpers are spending a few days at Capistrano Hot Springs.

Mrs. L. F. Moulton, of El Toro, spent Wednesday sketching at the mission.

I. W. Keel was in Los Angeles on business Thursday.

Jack N. Congdon is home for a few days from Los Angeles, where he is attending U. S. C.

EL MODENA

EL MODENA, July 2.—The El Modena Christian Temperance union held a benefit social at Mrs. Friedhelm's home on North Alameda avenue Wednesday. The proceeds are to go for the building fund for the home now being built at El Rock for aged women.

A pleasant time was had by all. It was decided that the regular meeting would be held on the second Thursday instead of Wednesday, with a picnic at Orange county park. The Orange union has been invited.

Mrs. Clara Jones gave an interesting talk about the home.

Following were Mrs. Emma Hancock, Mrs. Clara Hodson, Mrs. Clara Jones, Mrs. Ella Hayden, Mrs. Doris Carlton, Mrs. Mary Lentz, Mrs. Doris Gray and daughter, Dorothy Alma; Mrs. Cora Dickerson, Mrs. Mary Turner, Mrs. Mamie Settle, Mrs. L. M. Smith, Mrs. Dugan, Mrs. Carney, Miss Thelma Dugan, Miss Eva Adams, Mrs. Etta Adams and the hostess, Mrs. Mary Friedhelm.

Charles Myrick, of Elizabeth lake, called Thursday morning at the A. O. Hodson home. Mr. Myrick was a resident of El Modena, a good many years ago. He was down to attend the picnic Sunday at the park and has been visiting friends in Orange.

John Irvin's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, of Pomona, visited over the week-end at the Irvin home.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Warner took supper Tuesday evening with Mrs. Warner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Settle.

Miss Lois Coburn is suffering with an attack of scarlet fever.

Charles Robles is building a new house in preparation of the new home he will establish.

Mrs. Lacey and little daughter from Santa Ana called Wednesday afternoon on Mrs. Lacey's father, E. D. Waffie.

Mr. and Mrs. Nevins, of Long Beach, were callers Sunday afternoon at the John Irvin home.

Mrs. George Stoner spent Wednesday in Los Angeles.

CYCLE RIDERS OF COUNTY TO FROLIC AT H. B.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 2.—Motorcyclists of Orange county will be entertained by the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce at a field day meet July 10, it was announced today by L. C. Denslow, secretary.

The occasion will be the visit of the Orange county motorcycle club. The visitors will hold their field day program on the beach at the foot of Third street. The tentative program as outlined to Denslow by N. H. Hilton, of Santa Ana, and B. Rutledge, of Stanton, representatives of the club, included speed trials, a broad jump by trick riders, Australian circle races, bottle races and zig-zag races.

Beach sports will be indulged in by the cyclists when they tire of riding. Refreshments will also be served.

Babies Awarded Prizes At Beach

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 2.—Babies of Huntington Beach received their due at the baby show conducted as a part of the children's fair, when 14 ribbons were awarded by popular vote to those considered prize winners in their divisions.

PLAYGROUNDS OF CITY BUSY IN FIRST WEEK

Organization of various clubs and teams featured the opening this week of the summer playground at McKinley school, which on Monday, the first day, registered an attendance of 82, or about double the number for the first day of last year. The clubs are under leadership of some of the older boys.

A sewing club for girls over 10 years of age, elected Louise Burgess, president; Lorraine Wheeler, vice president, and Ida Montgomery, secretary.

Another group of older girls are being taught clogging every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon at 2:30 in the kindergarten department of the school. Helen Coleman has been appointed to check on attendance and to register all children who report to the playground every afternoon. Carolyn Roberts has been appointed to check out equipment to playground pupils.

The older boys' baseball team is being organized with Stewart Anderson as captain. They will play their first inter-playground game on Tuesday.

At present the older boys are working at toys, bird houses and other objects made from cigar boxes. Evidence of the interest taken in the playground activities is the large number of mothers who are accompanying their children to the grounds and remaining long enough to satisfy themselves as to supervision and nature of activities.

Passenger Plane Service Started

CHICAGO, July 2.—Regular passenger air service between Chicago and San Francisco was inaugurated yesterday when the Boeing Air Transport company took over the government air mail contract. The trip from Chicago to the west coast can be made in 20 hours, less than one-third of the time required by the fastest trains. Passengers are carried in the regular mail planes.

Although the primary business of the company for the next few days will be to comply with the mail contract, it is understood that offices will be opened here some time next week and an effort made to solicit passenger business.

Italian Writers Hold Book Week

FLORENCE, July 2.—To stimulate a taste for reading and to popularize Italian books, a group of literary men have just carried out a Book week throughout the country. Not only have the booksellers' windows been unusually tempting with a display of the best and brightest wares, but in all the large cities book fairs have been held in some central square.

In the theaters Italian plays were performed and in public halls well-known authors delivered lectures on the importance of reading as a factor of happiness.

New Date Set For Sapiro Libel Case

DETROIT, July 2.—A new trial of Aaron Sapiro's $1,000,000 libel suit against Henry Ford and the Dearborn Independent has been tentatively set for September 12 by Federal Judge Fred M. Raymond. The first hearing of the suit terminated April 21 in a mistrial.

No Lives Lost As Lake Vessel Sinks

LAKE GEORGE, N.Y., July 2.—The steamer Seagull, the largest passenger boat on Lake George, sank in about 200 feet of water near Glen Eyrie, after striking a rock. The 12 passengers and crew of 30 were rescued. Mail on the boat was saved.

Belgrade Plans Inquiry Into War Minister's Death

BELGRADE, July 2.—The mystery surrounding the death of the first war minister of Czechoslovakia, Gen. Stefanik, who was killed ostensibly in an airplane accident in 1919, promises to be lifted with the appointment of a belated investigation committee.

The investigation was forced by public charges that Stefanik was not the victim of an accident but was shot down by his own soldiers who thought his airplane was Hungarian.

For a long time the Czechoslovakian ministry ignored the charges, but they finally decided to act.

DISTRICT P.-T.A. TUESDAY MEET ESSENTIAL COG

Designed to serve as a clearing house for all matters relating to the operation of Parent-Teacher organizations, particularly as they relate to organization, juvenile welfare and protection, and co-operation with school and other authorities, are the Tuesday conferences of the executive board members of the Fourth (Orange County) District of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, to be held in the offices of the county superintendent of schools, Mrs. J. V. Kelsey, Garden Grove, district president, declared today.

Last year, Mrs. Kelsey explained, these conferences were attended by more than 500 members of the district jurisdiction, in addition to a large number of visitors, including school executives, physicians, welfare workers and citizens interested in juvenile problems. Problems ranging from law observance to religious education on released time, as well as matters of a confidential nature, investigations and co-operation with proper authorities, were taken up at these conferences, it was stated.

Interesting News Of The Day Told In Pictures

"Hello, there, sweetie," said the gentleman at the left. "Hello yourself, Gene Tunney!" said the young lady behind the bars—in baby talk. And so a friendship, chock full of smiles, was set up at Judson Health Center, New York. The others in the very unusual photo are Mrs. Eugene W. Ong (left) and Mrs. Arthur B. Claflin, New York clubwomen.

Marriage for most girls of 15 is the bunk, says Mrs. Cora Smull, of Reading, Pa. But when love comes tripping along, as it did for her in the form of her 43-year-old husband, Lester, that's a horse from a different garage. "I'm the exception," she maintains. "Most girls don't know their minds at 15. But I know I love Lester and he loves me. That's different!" Lester, affectionately posed with his bride here, is a fireman.

Edvin Wide, Swedish mercury, flying with perfect stride about the Harvard Stadium cinder path at Cambridge, Mass., in his unavailing attempt to smash the world's record for the two-mile run. Adverse winds blowing across the track slowed him down to 9 minutes, 25 3-5 seconds, 24 seconds behind the mark.

Edwin Markham, of New Brighton, N. Y., noted as the author of the classic, "The Man With the Hoe," often had been asked to pose like this but refused. Then the photographer found "America's poet laureate" one day in the garden of his sister-in-law, Miss May Murphy, of Los Angeles, and Mr. Markham was "caught with the goods" and couldn't very well refuse.

The first international flag day is to be celebrated at the giant peace arch at Blaine, Wash., on July 2. The arch, which spans the international boundary between the United States and Canada, was dedicated in September, 1921, by Marshal Joffre of France. Queen Marie of Rumania officiated at similar ceremonies conducted last year. At the flag day rites this year, Willard Lyon MacKenzie King, Canadian premier, made the principal address.

Every mother in the land doubtless shares the pride of these three in the fame to which their sons have flown. The three are, top to bottom, Mrs. Evangeline Lodge Lindbergh, Mrs. Richard E. Byrd, and Mrs. E. C. Chamberlin. And their sons are "Lindy" Lindbergh, Commander Richard Byrd, and Clarence Chamberlin.

Students of Texas Technological college at Lubbock recently chose Miss Katherine Bryarly of Dallas as the most beautiful blond on the campus. She's a junior.

The blonde and slender Eleanor Ambrose, widow of the great Maurice Mouvet—Maurice, of dance fame, who died in the Alps—is shown here as she returned to America on the Mauretania. "His last words," she said, "were to carry on . . . to go on dancing. But where in the world is there another partner. You see Maurice danced right into his grave. . . . I mean that literally. He was rehearsing the day before he died. It really wasn't lung trouble that ended his life; that merely weakened his condition so that he had no resistance. He had been practicing some steps in a new dance and one day he complained. The doctors examined him and found that he had somehow damaged his kidneys. Complications resulted and he hadn't the strength to fight. He gave his life for the dance. Perhaps I shall go into the films. . . . I don't know. He wanted to be buried over there. And so I have come back alone."

If you'd succeed as a dancer, be a lowbrow, advises Margaret Harney, of E. St. Louis, Ill., dance instructor and member of the National Institute of Social Dancing. Highbrow conversation bores dance partners, she says.

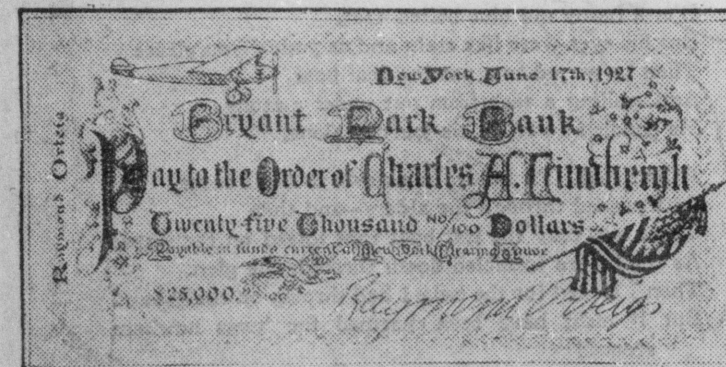

Hep-hep—there goes Volunteer Fireman Harry K. Thaw, reader! With his tasseled horn, bright red shirt, knitted necktie, and everything. The Rouss Volunteer Fire company of Winchester, Va., was on parade. Harry is the company's most noted honorary member.

Who wouldn't cheerfully pay a five-dollar fine for trespassing on the Smith college lawns at Northampton, Mass., if Margaret Grouet, chief of the student grass cops, were the arresting officer? Margaret's duty is to keep thoughtless undergraduates off the greens.

This is a cold, calloused age, but it has its kind hearts, at that. A burglar climbed through the window of Mrs. Nettie Jablonow's house in St. Louis one night, waking her up. Instead of yelling for the cops she listened to his story of being down and out, gave him $14 and let him escape by way of the kitchen, where he fixed himself a 2 a. m. breakfast. He thanked her very kindly.

WELCOME, MR. CITY MANAGER

Scores of friends of E. B. Collier went around to the city hall yesterday to welcome him to the office of city manager and to extend to him their best wishes for success in the work he has undertaken. They found his office filled with flowers sent to him as a mark of respect and esteem for him personally.

The occasion is a landmark in the city affairs of Santa Ana. The confidence that people of the city in general hold for Mr. Collier, of course, is worthy of comment. The esteem and respect for Mr. Collier as instanced yesterday must have been gratifying to him and to those who selected him to do the work laid before him. But more than that, the day marked the beginning of a new era in Santa Ana's municipal business. It is expected that through a city managership the city will gain much in efficiency. It seems certain that through this form of organization better co-ordination of city departments will be secured than has hitherto been possible. Mr. Collier is made the city's executive, working under the general direction of the city council. He is equipped by experience, personality and attitude to make the city managership a successful effort in Santa Ana. And it's up to the city council, especially and city officers and employees and citizens generally to help him, by hearty co-operation, to do so.

CHICAGO WATER SETTLEMENT

It is said that there is prospect of a peaceful settlement of the dispute between Chicago and the Great Lakes states over water diversion.

The Mississippi flood is credited with changing Chicago sentiment. Whatever may have been the responsibility of Chicago for contributing to that flood, by pouring part of the Great Lakes into the upper Mississippi, the responsible business men of Chicago do not want to have any such accusations brought against them hereafter. They want to do what they can to alleviate flood dangers, and they realize that it will do Chicago no good to have the states along the lower Mississippi blaming it for future deluges.

Chicago citizens are growing sensitive, too, about criticisms from Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Ohio and Canada, which accuse them of lowering lake levels, hampering lake navigation and bringing serious loss upon property owners all around the lakes by making harbors shallow, leaving docks stranded, ruining beaches, etc.

Chicago, therefore, is said to be in a mood to compromise, no matter what may be the decision of Special Master Charles E. Hughes, now representing the United States Supreme court in hearing the suit brought against the Chicago Sanitary District by several neighboring states.

The complaining states themselves may be inclined to compromise. It is believed that none of them will object to whatever water Chicago may need for a barge canal from Lake Michigan to the Mississippi, nor to whatever she needs temporarily for drainage purposes, if she proceeds to put in an adequate system of sewage disposal.

Such a settlement would require action by congress but that could doubtless be accomplished. There still remains Canada to deal with. But Canada, too, would probably listen to any fair and reasonable proposal, inasmuch as that country itself withdraws considerable water from the upper lakes to operate ship canals. This should be more satisfactory all around than a settlement based on an interstate and international fight, leaving lasting enmities.

ENGLAND FEARS A TUNNEL

One of the wickedest bodies of water in the whole world is the English channel which separates the French coast from that of England. Travelers loath crossing it in the small passenger vessels because nine times out of ten the passage is rough and the passengers become seasick.

For years the question of building a railway tunnel under the channel has been mooted. For years France and England, not being on extra good terms with one another, have blocked the plan. Today France is in favor of the scheme, but England objects. English military men still fear the tunnel might be used as a convenient method of invading England.

The tunnel could be built for $80,000,000. It would be 39 kilometers long and 50 meters below the bottom of the sea at its deepest point. It could accommodate 100 trains per day in either direction and could carry 25,000,000 passengers and 8,000,000 tons of freight annually. The traction would be electric.

An-er-ving British fears, the French enthusiasts say the exit of both tunnels on the English side would be under the range of all the guns in Dover. Not only that, but power stations which would supply current to trains coming from France would be in England. The English could easily cut off the current in time of war. They could fill the tunnel with asphyxiating gas. There would be a water lock, so that in case of war, the tunnel could be filled from top to bottom with water for a space of one and one-half miles, without destroying the structure. In other words France could safeguard itself from England and vice versa. The military danger would be nil. Nevertheless England objects.

That's how these dear European allies love and trust one another.

THE BEANSTALK TREE

The American paper pulp problem may be solved, if a tree produced by New York experts is all that they claim for it.

This is a hybrid poplar which is said to grow like the mythical beanstalk that Jack climbed. It is credited with a height of 60 feet and a diameter of 18 inches at the age of 13 years.

Poplar may not make such good paper as some other varieties of timber, but it will serve for most purposes. The world is now consuming timber for wood pulp four times as fast as it is grown. With the new tree, it is considered possible to grow pulp wood in any quantity, planting from year to year according to the prospective needs of the market. The first crop could be harvested in 10 years.

Thus pulp production would be shifted from forestry to agriculture, trees being farmed along with other crops. It is a prospect worth considering by farmers with waste land, for poplar will grow almost anywhere.

On Signing Referendum

Fresno Republican

One of the acts of the last Legislature was to pass favorably on a bill to tax auto trucks in proportion to their draft. It was introduced by a San Joaquin valley law maker, Senator Waggy of Kern.

It was a reasonable measure. It undertook to apportion to trucks, according to size, the cost of upkeep of the highways of the state which they are using in the ordinary transaction of business.

Some truck interests centered at San Francisco are attempting to hold up this measure by referendum.

We trust that no one will sign this referendum under any misapprehension of its purpose or through mere good nature.

The Waggy bill should stand as a statute of the state of California.

It may not be perfect, but is a fair attempt to carry out a worthy purpose.

And the selfish interests that wish to get more than their share of benefit out of the highways, should not be allowed to override the act of the legislature.

If some one asks you to sign this referendum, do not sign it unless you "know" what it will do.

And do not sign it then, unless you are interested in having the rest of the people of California pay for the upkeep of highways smashed down by heavy motor trucks.

The use of the referendum, in California politics, as a mere weapon for delay, may come to be a serious matter.

The initiative has been much discussed in California politics; the referendum comparatively little.

The abuse of the initiative was in its opportunity as an "educational weapon." This abuse aroused much anger against it. As when, year after year, certain propagandist interests for the "single tax" spent large sums of money, election after election, to force the attention of the people of California to the "single tax" proposals. They finally gave it up. Most of the initiative measures, on the state ballot in recent years, have been legitimate.

Perhaps we are to go through a period of selfish employment of the referendum.

The referendum can, obviously, be used for delay.

It may be used for mere delay, in instances where a term of two years would be of high financial value to some interest. Some capitalist, or some group or corporation, might be willing to spend several thousands of dollars, to obtain signatures to a referendum, so that during the months before the law finally goes into effect, tens of thousands of dollars more could be reaped.

The moral to this situation is that no one should sign initiative or referendum petitions carelessly.

Put too great a value on your signature to use it just because some one asks you to put down your name.

And do not be taken in by the specious argument that your signature does not mean anything, that it is the final vote that will count, not the petition. You will be approached on the ground of fairness.

"Give the people a chance to vote on this" you will be told.

But giving the people a chance to vote will not be the object. The delay will be the purpose of the referendum. And your signature will be the cause of the delay.

How can we expect to have a Legislature that respects itself, if we do not give it the poor respect to agreeing with its actions until there is a positive reason for overturning them—a reason that will not only justify the spending of money to get the names, but will justify an intelligent signing of names.

Look twice at the man or woman that brings a referendum petition to you. He may be "using" you.

Editorial Shorts

The Facts cannot but be a bit skeptical about this uniform traffic ordinance. It is seldom that a law can be framed for controlling the traffic of a big city like Los Angeles and a small one like Redlands, for instance. It might well be that the basic principles should be the same, but it hardly seems that the same prohibition as to turning at a street corner should be in force, as to the Seventh and Broadway in Los Angeles, and State and Orange in Redlands.—Riverside Press.

It will come as a surprise to a lot of radio owners to hear that the first broadcast in the Eskimo tongue was on the air last week. It must have been something else we heard.—The Hamilton Spectator.

FOOD FOR TUBERCULOUS IS MADE TO PLEASE

EYE AND APPETITE

The cure for tuberculosis is sought largely in hygienic measures, including a proper amount of rest and of exercise, of fresh air and of suitable food. Thus it is that every modern sanatorium for the tuberculous is likely to call on the services of a trained dietitian to provide nutritious materials for the patient's diets. Since the patient may not have a particularly good appetite, it is often necessary to force the diet or to induce the patient to eat more, by special efforts on the attractiveness of the manner in which the material is prepared.

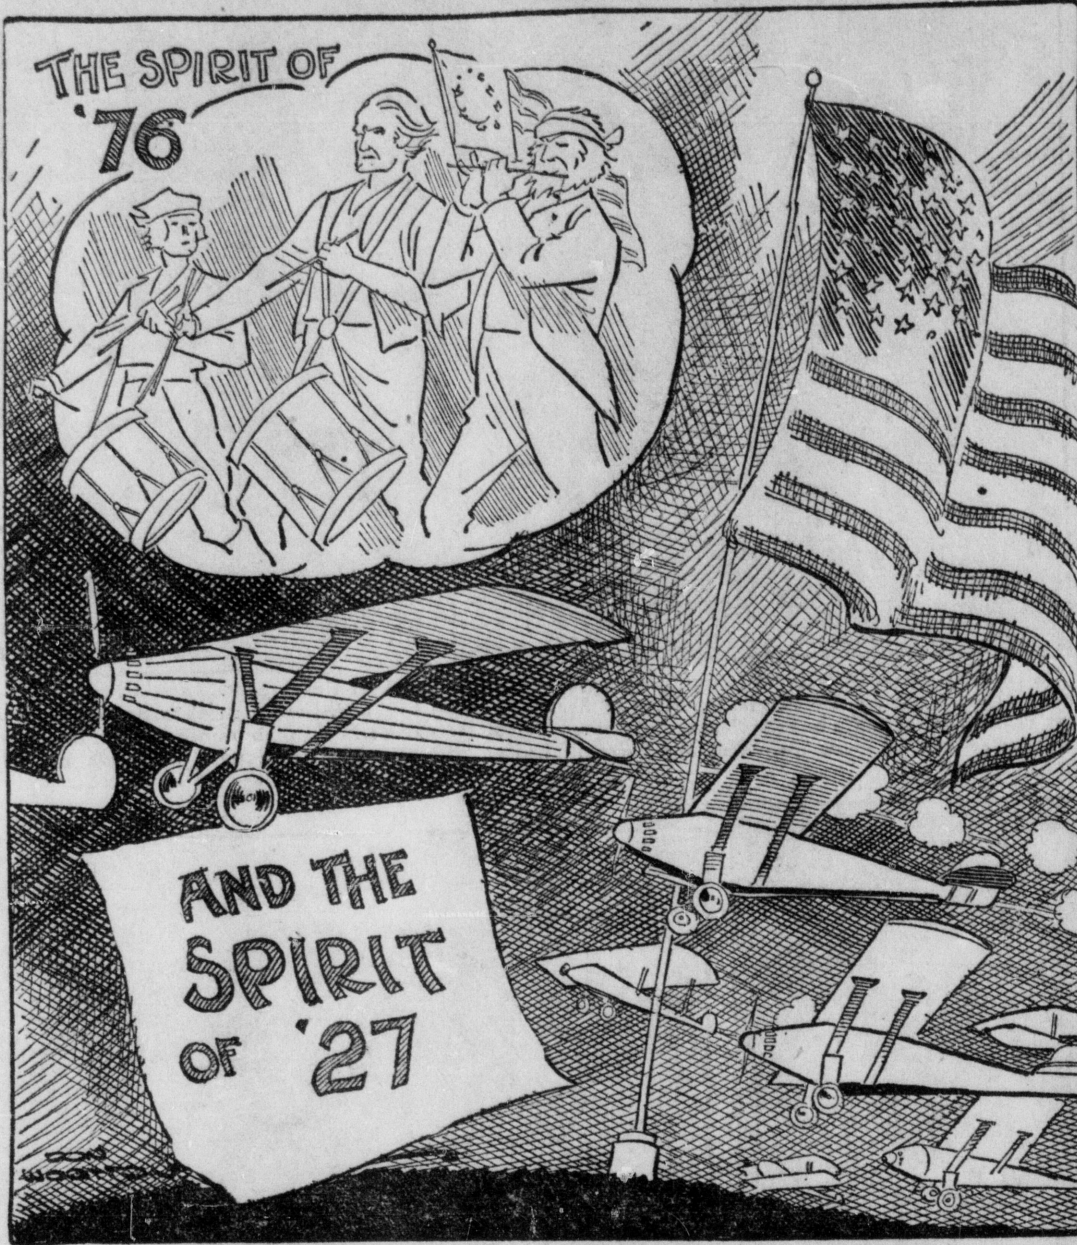

In one of the most important sanatoriums of the west and general tuberculosis diet is planned to include adequate amounts of mineral salts, vitamins, carbohydrates, proteins and fats. Orange juice is used largely for its value in vitamins, as well as for its nourishment.

In order to give a large number of calories, such foods as milk, cream, butter, eggs and meat form an abundant portion of the diet; but not too abundant, since their too frequent use may wholly destroy any appetite the patient may have for them. Nevertheless, milk is one of the cheapest and most easily digested sources of proteins and a quart is nearly equal in nutritive value to that of a pound of beefsteak.

In some institutions the patients have milk three times a day, but if they tire of it, it is given at 10 o'clock in the morning as chocolate malted milk, at 4 o'clock as an egg-nog, and at 8 o'clock in the evening as hot chocolate. At such a time the hot drink may serve also as a sedative, leading towards a good night's rest. Cream may be given as custard or as ice cream. Butter and eggs are valuable as a source of vitamins, proteins and fat.

Since these patients are likely to be more often at rest than engaging in exercise, foods must be cooked so as to be easily digestible. Meats, therefore, are seldom fried but more frequently thoroughly roasted. Vegetables are steamed preferably in their cooking, rather than boiled, since boiling causes much of the nutrition to pass into the water and to be thrown away.

Another Glorious Fourth

Closer Together

New York and Paris, it has been demonstrated, are now only about 33 hours apart. Berlin is a little more than that, and London a little less. Call it a day and a half from America to England, France, Germany or Italy.

A generation ago, by horse and buggy, the same time might have represented 40 or 50 miles. Improved transportation has increased our range already nearly 100 times, and is steadily bringing distant places still nearer.

It is time to ask again the old Biblical question, "Who is thy neighbor?" Already the leading European powers are our neighbors in almost as real a sense as were the people over in the next village in our pioneer days. And communication, the other essential of friendly intercourse, is vastly quicker than transportation, as the other is more permeable than the air or water.

Evidently it is time for the development of a new neighborliness, on a scale so vast as to have been inconceivable to former generations, sweeping away the prejudices based on their lack of contact.

Worth While Verse

A CERTAIN GARDEN PLACE

There is a certain garden place,
From all the world apart,
That holds a little of my youth,
A fragment of my heart.
That holds the hope of yesterday,
The faith of all the years,
The tenderness of gentle truth,
The warmth of wistful tears!

I plant within my garden place
Gay flowers—gold and blue—
They laugh above the silent dreams,
That never dared come true!
Sometimes I scatter crumbs of bread,
Like manna, on the grass,
That tiny birds may sing a song
Of thank-you as they pass.

There is a slender tree that stands
Beside my garden place;
Its leaves reach out like friendly hands!
Sometimes they touch my face,
And—when they touch—I make believe
That blessed fingers creep Caressingly across my cheek,
To wake my soul from sleep!
There is a certain garden place,
(So very still it lies!)

That tells of happiness, long dead,
And love that never dies,
There is a lovely garden place,
From all the world apart,
That holds a little of my youth,
A fragment of my heart!
—Margaret Sangster in the New York Sun.

Little Benny's Note Book

by Lee Pope

I was late for supper again tonight, being a specially bad time to be late on account of having bin specially warned to be early, and pop layed down his wife and fork, saying, Well, is this any time to be making a formal call, just wen people are in the mist of a meet? However, now that you are heer I suppose we'll haf to be polite to you, how have you bin?

I didn't know wat time it was, I sed, and my sister Gladis sed, How are all your folks? You know Benny Potts, dont you, mother, he's bin heer before, I believe, she sed. Yes indeed, hee hee, I remember him quite well, he hasent changed a bit, hee hee, ma sed, and pop sed, Yes, its remarkable how young he keeps, he duzzent seem a day older, and yet its bin quite a while since the last time he dropped in to see us, in fact I can hardly remember wen he sat down to a meal with us. Wats the news, you know we dont get around much, he sed.

I asked some man wat time it was but he didnt have any watch on, I sed, and pop sed, How intristing, but I remember you allways were a grate one for having adventures.

Its very nice to see you agen, Gladis sed. We were jest talking about you a few minits ago, werent we, mother? she sed, and ma sed, O yes, yes indeed, espeshilly Mr. Potts, werent you, Willyum?

Ill say I was, pop sed. Wich he properly was, and I sed, I bet Ill be the first one at the table tomorro nite, all rite.

O, then you got the invitation, Im so glad you can except, pop sed. Perhaps you'd like to have a little bite with us this evening, we didnt expect you but if you care to take pot luck we'll be more than glad to have you, wont you sit down, he sed.

Wich I did.

MOBASA OR BUST

One notes as a sign of the times that the Los Angeles Times is devoting space to the presentation of the claims of Mobasa, on the east coast of Africa, as a good place in which to take up a temporary or even permanent residence.

Mobasa, we are told by the times, is the port of entry for the three British-controlled states that surround Lake Victoria—Uganda, Kenya and Tanganyika.

Taken together they comprise an immense area. It is not an unhealthy country. It contains fertile valleys, rolling uplands and ranges of forest-clad mountains.

This seems to be a fairly good showing as to the advantages of Mobasa, and, things being as they are, just now, in Los Angeles, it may be that Mobasa is what is needed.

At any rate Mobasa is a long way from Los Angeles, and, just at present, that counts for much. Of course one takes it for granted that the United States has no extradition treaty with Mobasa.

If it has, why, what's the use?

WOODLAND VIEW—Southern California unites with the central and northern parts of the state in advertising the advantages and attractions of this state throughout the east, and much money is annually expended to that end.

But it is barely possible that some small portion of this money might be used in the work of informing the people of northern California as to the facts regarding the southern portion of the state.

In Woodland, the other day, when the board of education was looking over grammar school examination papers, the following came to light:

Question—"Tell what you can about Southern California."

Answer—"The Southern Californians have a hard life. They make about everything by hand. Their dress very near being naked. They grow oranges, bananas and cotton. The women are picking cotton and bananas for the men."

AS TO STATE DIVISION—Among the many incorrect ideas and impressions of the life and people of Southern California held by our friends of the central and northern parts of the state, is that in reference to state division. So many of them profess to believe, and, in fact, do believe, that the majority of the people of Southern California are so anxious for a division of the state that they spend much of their time planning how best to bring it about. The fact is, however, that state division is not at all a live issue in Southern California.

A few people, it is probable, regard the plan or idea with favor, and there are, of course, some who would have a division of the state for the purpose of adding to the population and prestige of Los Angeles by making it a state capital. But candor compels the admission that even in Los Angeles there is very little sentiment in favor of dividing the best and greatest state in the Union—grand old California.

YE TRUTHFUL EDITOR—Candor and truthfulness are at all times to be praised, and they are never more praiseworthy than when displayed by an editor. W. M. Montgomery, editor of the Montgomery (Tenn.) Vindicator, candidly explains why his paper was late in the following language:

"The late appearance of the Vindicator this week is attributable to several causes, the most principal of which is that Ye Editor went off on his fourth annual spree for this spring and it took him four days to get back and the remainder of the week to get over it."

NOTHING IN A NAME

With perspicacity almost amounting to genius someone has found out that what is really needed in and by Los Angeles is to have the name of Main street changed to something else. This will be done, albeit the change was strongly opposed by many who were and are evidently under the impression that it is not so much the name of a street as to what is done on that street that really counts.

MERELY A SUGGESTION—Scientists announce that the Pons-Winnecke comet is approaching the earth at a speed rate of a million miles a day.

If it were possible for the comet to temporarily delay its progress at a point in or near Los Angeles it could resume its journey with every reservation sold for the remainder of the trip to its destination, wherever that may be.

GOOD FOR HOOVER—The silly season would seem to be on when so many men of prominence are being interviewed on the very important matter as to whether President Coolidge is entitled to blame or credit for using worms, instead of artificial flies, in trout fishing.

Secretary Hoover once more demonstrated that he is possessed of much of what may be termed good horse sense when he dismissed the subject by saying that he did not consider the matter anyone's business except President Coolidge's.

TRUE, TOO TRUE—Some one, with "malice aforethought," made it impossible to hear C. C. Julian over the radio one night recently. Too bad, of course, to shut Mr. Julian off, but the fact remains that many people of Los Angeles would be much better off today if they had never heard him or of him.

THE TESTIMONIAL—"Well, sir," asked the typewriter agent of an old customer, "how do you like your new machine?"

"It's wonderful," was the enthusiastic reply.

"Would you mind writing us a testimonial?"

"Certainly not," said the proud owner and dashed off the following:

"Afted using these typewriter fro three month an d over, I unhesitatingly pronounce it to be adn moor than the M anufacturs claim f or it. Durinb the time in mmy possession it three myths i t hass mor e th an payed for itsf id the saving off tim e anae laborr."

The Dwarf

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

"CLAIRE has told me several lies lately," worried Claire's mother to me. "I've scolded and punished her, but it doesn't seem to do any good!" "What kind of untruths does she tell?" I questioned. "Oh, she's always having some impossible adventure, or imagining things which she relates as absolute truth until I'm fairly discouraged!" As a matter of fact I am afraid Claire's mother was taking a course fully as questionable as Claire. A lie is a serious thing because a lie is a deliberate falsehood while, as a matter of fact, many children go wandering off into the land-of-just-pretend with such fervor that their imaginings really do seem true. Such material does not weave lie fabric. It is drawn from the thread world of fantasy and related with confidence. The problem here for the parent is not to interpret the tale as a lie, but accept it in the spirit rendered and then at opportune times taking great care to help the child distinguish between make-believe stories and those drawn from the land of reality.

SAT on a log by a brook in the wood
And chewed on a thorn apple twig,
When all of a sudden before me there stood
A dwarf-man who wasn't as big
As a sparrow-bird hopping about on the grass,
Or the Jack-in-the-Pulpits I see as I pass.

He was wrinkled and brown with a beard to his knees
O'er a funny old blue belted coat,
But his eyes were like stars and as young you please.
Then he waved to a passing leaf boat
And, pulling a sack from out under a stone,
He paddled away on his journey alone.

So I tho't, "Ah! I'll follow him down to their caves,
So I pushed through the alders—and then
There was only the leaf boat that tossed on the waves
As the breeze trembled down through the glen.
Then I looked for the twig I had thrown on the ground
But it must have been charmed for 'twas nowhere around!
